The Happy Candidates.
Both Sure of Victory.
Business With Russia.
Plucky Girl Flier.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

(Copyright, 1928.)

NATURE, kind to candidates, makes them all believe they are to be elected up to the last moment. Then, of course, one of them must learn the sad truth.

NEWSPAPERMEN that met Mr. Hoover in New York City yesterday and the big crowd that heard his Madison Square Garden speech, felt he was absolutely certain of success.

YOU may say that his certainty is not surprising, considering that the Republican party has among its assets prosperity and last election's plurality of 7,000,000 votes. But always remember that in politics everything is uncertain.

Wise Wall Street gentlemen were betting 6 to 1 on Gov. Hughes after Woodrow Wilson was actually elected.

GOV. SMITH, who understands practical politics as well as any man, knows what uncertainties lie in the ballot box. But he has adopted the expression, "when I am in the White House."

As for Mr. Raskob, he is so sure that he probably will not call up to ask what happened.

THE AMERICAN GENERAL ELECTRIC COMPANY makes a $22,000,000 contract with Russia and Russia hopes it is "a forerunner of recognition by the United States." It is at least a proof of sanity on the part of Mr. Swope, head of General Electric. A good business man attends to business. Our government still shudders because Bolshevism refused to recognize and pay the debts of a foolish czar and his grand dukes.

ELINOR SMITH, a girl 17 years old, amused herself yesterday by flying her plane under all four of the bridges that unite Brooklyn and Manhattan. She left Curtiss Field alone in her plane, flew down to the upper bay, came down the East River, whipped her plane under each of the bridges in turn, sometimes flying only 10 feet above the water. She returned to Curtiss Field one hour and 10 minutes after she left.

THE young lady violated rules of the Department of Commerce, but will probably be forgiven.

Women will fly as well as men, for physical strength in flying is less important than nerve. In pure courage women equal men and surpass them.

STEERING his automobile by rifle sights, Maj. Segrave, British speed champion, will attempt to beat his record and do 240 miles an hour.

He may do it, although such speed, on the ground, is useless. But developing an engine that can MAKE the speed is very useful.

FLYING machines capable of a 500-mile speed are wanted and are coming soon. And in the air any speed may be safe.

To go around the earth as quickly as the sun SEEMS to go around it will remain the goal, until it is attained.

Then men will think seriously about getting away from this little earth. But that probably will NOT be permitted.

BUTLER CABIN PYRE OF WOMAN

JEWELS IDENTIFY VICTIM

Jewels found by police in charred bones scattered in the ashes of an abandoned log cabin six miles southeast of Butler today resulted in identification of the cremated body as Mrs. Nellie A. Jones, 33, 124 First street, Butler, police report. Neighbors readily identified three fire-blackened rings and a watch, salvaged from the ashes of her pyre. Police have taken her husband, J. Earl Jones, into custody for questioning by state troopers.

IDENTIFY FIRE BODY; HUSBAND HELD

BUTLER, Pa., Oct. 23.—Mrs. Nellie A. Jones, 33, of 124 First street, Butler, was the victim of the cabin fire on the Patterson farm, six miles southeast of Butler, last Friday night.

Police so announced today after neighbors had identified three rings and a watch, "salvaged" from the ruins of the fire.

Simultaneously with the announcement of the identification, state and city police took into custody the woman's husband, J. Earl Jones, 38, West End garage owner. He is being held for questioning in the State Police barracks here, but no formal charge has been placed against him. He refused to make a statement.

Police say Mrs. Jones disappeared last Friday night, and a few hours later the log cabin on the Patterson farm, was destroyed by fire. From the ruins, the police recovered several pieces of charred bones, the watch and three rings. These rings and watch when shown to women neighbors of Mrs. Jones, it is said, were readily identified as having been her property. Jones and his wife had been married about eight years.

BELIEVED MURDERED

That the woman was murdered outside the abandoned shack, on the Bull Creek road, was given credence by the fact that there was indications of a struggle under a tree near the old house. Blood was found on the ground, a fact that leads police to the conclusion that she was murdered there. It is their opinion that the body was carried into the cabin, after a pyre had been arranged around an old bed, sprinkled with oil or gasoline and the match applied.

Residents of the vicinity, who watched the shack burn Friday night, told officers that the fire seemed to rage fiercest in one corner of the building. It was in that corner where the charred bones and jewelry were found.

A vegetable can, evidently used to scoop earth in an endeavor to cover the bloodstains under the tree, was found and turned over to state police to have it photographed for fingerprints.

Tell Gardner If Magistrates Cover Up!

If you know of cases in which magistrates, aldermen or justices of the peace have assumed jurisdiction when liquor selling, operating a slot machine, conducting a lottery, keeping a gambling house or a house of ill-fame was charged, and have let the defendants off with a fine instead of holding him for court, as the law requires, tell District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner about it. Vice has been licensed in Pittsburgh through the course of the magistrates in usurping the power of the courts, and magistrates so doing are guilty of the crime of malfeasance. The District Attorney's office is on the third floor of the Court House. His telephone number is Atlantic 1900.

POLICE JUDGES' ACTS PUT UNDER FIRE

A new and fertile field of inquiry has been uncovered for the grand jury investigating graft.

Citizens who have interested themselves in the situation have discovered that since the first of the year only 87 cases of liquor law violation, 17 of gambling and 11 involving the keeping of a house of ill-fame have been referred to the Allegheny county grand jury by the city magistrates.

Certain of the magistrates, it is affirmed, have usurped the power of the courts and unlawfully assumed jurisdiction over such cases. In so doing, it is claimed, they have virtually established a system of licensing vice. It was learned on the highest authority that the magistrates taking this course have rendered themselves liable to prosecution for malfeasance in office. District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner will be asked to take cognizance of the situation.

Under the law if a prima facie case of violating the prohibition law, or of keeping a house of ill-fame, or of conducting a lottery, gambling house or slot machine is made against a defendant, the magistrate has no alternative but to hold him for court. If he fails to do so, he is guilty of malfeasance and liable to imprisonment.

SOME EVADE

Certain of the magistrates, however, have evaded their duty by changing the charge on their dockets to "keeping a disorderly house" or "disorderly conduct," and then discharging the defendant or letting him off with a fine.

In certain sections of the city where it is notorious that bootlegging and other forms of commercial vice flourish few cases of such crime have been held for court.

Examination of the records of the Clerk of Courts discloses that since January 1 only one case of liquor law violation was held for court by Magistrate John J. Verona, who presided until recently over the police court in the Hill district. Anyone depending solely on the

DRY CHIEF TALKS IN RACKET PROBE

Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington today told the grand jury what he has learned of booze graft in Pittsburgh during the two years he has been trying to make Western Pennsylvania dry.

It was a general story, District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner said, and specific instances were to be supplied later by Joseph A. Frayne, Pennington's assistant.

The records of the federal grand jury did not accompany him into the jury room, but Pennington was able to draw upon an immense fund of information acquired through the federal inquiry which indicted 167 politicians, police and racketeers.

POLITICIAN CALLED

Two of Pennington's prohibition agents were waiting to follow him, but Gardner decided not to call them. Instead William Wagner, Mt. Oliver politician and former assemblyman, went before the inquisitors. George S. Wilson, East End alderman and his constable, George P. Andrews, were waiting to be questioned, as was Burgess Walter P. Berner, of Sharpsburg.

With the true story of whatever rum ring exists brought before them through Pennington, the jurors may look forward with assurance to another day of possible revelations Thursday or Friday. Gardner yesterday definitely promised that on one of those days Albert Forney, slot machine king, would have his chance to "tell all" if he still cares to do so.

Gardner said today that he still lacked enough evidence to indict "the big fellows," but had ample incriminating testimony against the lowly racketeers. For that reason he plans to ask the courts to allow this grand jury to function throughout November.

The District Attorney's present plans are to adjourn the jury Thursday or Friday so that he might have ready for it before next Wednesday the presentment upon which the jurors may indict.

ONE-MAN CARS OR MORE FARE FACE CITY —A. W. ROBERTSON

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

Reduced operating expenses by the use of one-man cars or higher fares are the two alternatives faced by the Pittsburgh Railways Company, if it is to remain in existence, A. W. Robertson told the members of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board at a luncheon at the Fort Pitt Hotel today.

In justifying the 25-cent bus fare he pointed to an operating loss during July, August and September and the fact that a low bus fare would take passengers from street cars.

"Fifty cents out of every dollar received by the street car lines goes back into wages," said Mr. Robertson. "Twenty-five cents supplies material and power, making a total of 75 cents out of every dollar received which goes right back to the Pittsburgh district. Of the remaining 25 cents which goes to security holders, at least 50 per cent is received by people in the Pittsburgh district.

RESENTS CRITICISM

Mr. Robertson pointed to the fact that criticism of transportation companies is general throughout the country. He displayed clippings from other cities in which the street car lines are under public fire.

"It does not seem possible," he said, "that the street cars have gotten all of the dunderheads in the world in their management. It would seem likely that the telephone companies or the steel companies would get some of them. We think that the management of the street car lines is just as intelligent as that of other indus-

Sixth St. Bridge Claims Its First

The new Sixth Street Bridge, which opened just last Friday, claimed its first victim this afternoon. An unidentified man crawled over the guard rail and dropped into the Allegheny River.

There was one witness to the suicide, a woman who was walking across the bridge. She shrieked. T. A. Murray, a salesman for the Second Pool Coal Company, saw a struggling form in the waters but not quick enough to effect a rescue.

HUSBAND SLAIN, WIDOW BRINGS 3 TO TRIAL

A woman's determination to solve the slaying of her husband after police had failed, resulted in three men facing a Criminal Court jury today on charges of murder.

Mrs. Margaret McDonough, comely 21-year-old widow, of Pitcairn, appeared in court with four witnesses whom she had found by her own detective work. They testified to a fatal attack on her husband, James O. McDonough, 26, who died June 18, 1927, in Braddock General Hospital after having been forcibly ejected from the saloon of Michael Zornyak, Halket street, Braddock. Zornyak is in Europe, it was disclosed.

The three defendants, exonerated by a coroner's jury, were later charged with murder by Mrs. McDonough before Alderman A. M. Maloney. They are John Sliwka, 1513 Wolf avenue, North Braddock; Michael Chisnar, 1710 Terrace street, North Braddock, and Michael Rechtowick, 1116 Talbot avenue, Braddock.

Leaving her three children while she took the witness stand, Mrs. McDonough testified that her husband had gone to Zornyak's place with his week's pay, several days prior to his death.

James Giles, William Edwards and Martin L. Miller, all Negroes, testified that they had seen a man being beaten and ousted from Zornyak's

HOOVER ASSAILS SMITH'S POLICIES AS SOCIALISTIC

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Back in the capital after a smashing invasion of Al Smith's own New York, Herbert Hoover entered the home stretch of his presidential campaign today confident of victory in November and assured that he had delivered a telling blow in the stronghold of his adversary.

More than 20,000 people from the sidewalks of New York greeted the Republican nominee at Madison Square Garden last night in the greatest demonstration accorded him since he launched his campaign. Riotous applause, which lasted 15 minutes, greeted him as he was presented by James R. Sheffield, former Ambassador to Mexico.

DAWES MAKES BOW

Vice President Charles G. Dawes made his first appearance of the campaign with Hoover, assailing the Democratic emphasis upon prohibition as an attempt to avoid the major issue of Republican prosperity and progress.

Hoover charged Gov. Smith with advocating "state socialism" in his proposals for water power development, agriculture and state controlled liquor sales. Such policies, he declared, would lead in the end to the "utter destruction of self government and the American political and social system."

The great issue of the campaign, he told his audience, was a "question of fundamental principle—shall we depart from the principles of our American political and economic system, upon which we have advanced beyond the rest of the world, in order to adopt methods based on principles destructive of its very foundation?"

Hoover was showered with predictions of victory in New York state, New England and the entire industrial East during his 27-hour visit to the metropolis.

Hoover's tumultuous day in New York included six lesser speeches. He interviewed hundreds of party leaders and workers from all sections of the Empire State and received half a dozen delegations of supporters. In this round of events, he revived memories of his service in feeding 10,000,000 European children after the war, pleaded for the election of a Republican Congress, spurred his national organization to greater efforts with a warning that the only danger ahead lay in overconfidence, and lauded the work of World War veterans in getting out the vote.

The high spot of his visit was his attack on Gov. Smith's policies before his night meeting at Madison Square Garden. After alluding to New York's favorite son as "my distinguished opponent," which brought thunderous applause from the throng, he dealt with the issues

MAYOR ORDERS 'GOUGE' BOOK STOPPED

Mayor Charles H. Kline late today banned the printing of the Hoover League Manual and ordered the return of all money collected for it by solicitors. The manual was to have been published under the direction of Edward Garlitz, the Mayor's assistant secretary, and was supposed to have had as its objective the furthering of the cause of Herbert Hoover.

In reality it was a racketeer proposition, it is charged, the real object of which was to further the finances of a small mysterious group who identified themselves as the Hoover Republican Progressive League. They expected to reap a harvest from the sale of advertising space in the publication, which was to contain a biographical sketch of the Republican candidate.

Garlitz was treasurer of the organization and former police Magistrate Walter Lloyd compiled the publication. It was to have been off the press and ready for distribution from the Mayor's office this week.

ZEPPELIN, LOS ANGELES MAY TAKE AIR TOGETHER

NAVAL AIR STATION, LAKEHURST, N. J., Oct. 23.—(INS.)—Thousands of Americans may have the privilege of being witnesses to the unique and historic spectacle of the world's two largest airships taking off simultaneously from the landing field here Thursday morning.

This became known today when Lieutenant - Commander C. H. Wiley, acting commandant of the Navy dirigible Los Angeles, announced that midnight Wednesday has been set as the zero hour for the station personnel's liberty. This means that, provided weather conditions and wind are favorable, the Los Angeles will be taken out of the hangar and moored on the stub mast some time between midnight and dawn, preparatory to a takeoff at daybreak.

Although the Graf Zeppelin is expected to be ready for a takeoff late tonight, officers of the ship and naval officers here announced that the air liner will not start on her midwestern flight before Thursday morning. Commander Wiley, therefore, indicated the possibility of the Graf Zeppelin and the Los Angeles taking off the same morning.

The Navy dirigible, however, will not accompany the German airship, but will merely undertake a training flight.

Which one of the two airships will soar into the skies first, Commander Wiley would not say. He said the Graf Zeppelin will take off immediately after leaving the hangar, while the Los Angeles will do so from the stub mast. Both ships, he pointed out, can take off within a few minutes.

FEAR DYNAMITE GUARDS JAWORSKI LOOT

Owner's Battle Futile :-: County Fights Abandoned Coal Mine Blaze :-: Started by Still

FRANK KOEHLER

For six months Frank Koehler, owner, has tried to extinguish smoldering fire in his abandoned Mifflin township mine, endangering homes and already claimant of two lives. It has cost him much in money. Today, Allegheny County, after pleading by residents, has taken up the work.

MANY MEN

The county at last has gone into the project in earnest and many men with full equipment are on the scene, near Bettis Field, on McKeesport-Pittsburgh road. Here, workmen plant dynamite. For weeks, county, township and state all disclaimed responsibility in fighting the fire.

BLASTING

Blasting away the hilltop to get at the flames is a big task. Here workmen dig holes for dynamite. In other places, they fill holes where flames have come through. The fire was started, it develops now, according to police, when a still exploded in an adjacent abandoned mine months ago.

ENGINEERS

Assistant County Engineer J. A. Kearns (rear), is superintending the task of putting out the flames. Here he consults with Koehler, owner of the abandoned diggings. For the past several months, the fire has menaced homes built on the hillside and in the vicinity.

FAILURE TO HOLD CASES FOR COURT UNDER FIRE

court record for information would naturally infer that only one bootlegging case had been discovered in the Hill district this year.

Magistrate George H. England has held two liquor cases for court this year; Magistrate John J. Sweeney, one; Magistrate John Orie, four; Magistrate John A. Staley, Jr., two; Magistrate William Soost, nine; Magistrate E. M. Hough, 20, and Magistrate A. D. Brandon, 48.

On the charge of conducting a lottery Verona has held one defendant for court; Soost, one; Staley, one; Sweeney, three; Hough, three, and Brandon, seven.

CHECK NEEDED

In the matter of slot machines the records show only one case in which a defendant was held for court this year by a city magistrate, the magistrate being Brandon.

It is the district attorney's duty, it was pointed out, to keep check on the magistrates. It would be a comparatively simple matter, it was said, for him to investigate cases in which defendants are fined by magistrates under city ordinances on a charge of keeping a disorderly house. All that would be necessary would be to question the policemen making the arrests and inquire if any evidence had been offered as to selling of liquor, gambling or immorality. This could be done, it was said, through the county detectives.

District Attorney Gardner, while admitting that the magistrates have exceeded their authority, has taken the position that he could not spare his detectives to keep check on them because the detectives were needed to police the county outside of the city.

Policies Of Smith Scored

impersonally, or as the policies "of the Democratic party."

RAPS SMITH PLAN

Twice during his prepared address he paid tribute to the political philosophies of Democrats—to Andrew Jackson and Woodrow Wilson. Again he called out roars of applause with cordial references to Theodore Roosevelt and Calvin Coolidge.

Gov. Smith's plan for Federal commissions to deal with administrative problems such as waterpower were characterized by the Republican nominee as subversive "to the very basis of liberty and freedom."

"They would destroy initiative, wipe out competition, destroy free industry, free commerce and free speech," he said.

"There has been revived in this campaign a series of proposals which, if adopted, would be a long step toward the abandonment of our American system and a surrender to the destructive operation of governmental conduct of commercial business.

"Because the country is faced with difficulty and doubt over certain national problems—that is, prohibition, farm relief and electrical power—our opponents propose that we must thrust government a long way into the business which gave rise to these problems. In effect they abandon the tenets of their own party and turn to state socialism as a solution for the difficulties presented by all three.

'It took Congress six years of discussion to decide even what the method of administration of Muscle Shoals should be.

"You cannot extend the mastery of government over the daily working lives of a people without at the same time making it the master of the people's souls and thoughts."

Six Dozen Balls Vanish as Babe, Lou Slug; Call Game

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Oct. 23.
Associated Press.

MORE than six dozen baseballs were "lost" here yesterday in an exhibition game in which Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig, home run sluggers of the New York Yanks played. The game was called before the ninth inning because no more balls were available.

Any ball that was fouled or knocked anywhere on the field was immediately pounced upon by scrambling youngsters.

The Babe hit three homers. Gehrig doubled and tripled. The score was not kept.

Weather Conditions.

There was a rapid eastward drift of the pressure units during yesterday and last night. The Atlantic coast high is now far out on the Atlantic, the Mississippi Valley low now stretches from Eastern Ontario southward over Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia to Northern Georgia, and the western high covers the Rocky Mountain states, and the western and Southern Plains states.

Light to moderately heavy rains occurred over the Lake region, the Ohio Valley states and southward to the gulf. The rains were heaviest over Tennessee and Western North Carolina. It is warmer than yesterday over the Atlantic Coast states and the Plains states, and decidedly colder over the Ohio Valley states and southward over the lower Mississippi Valley and Gulf states.

Light frost occurred in Northern Texas, Arkansas, Missouri, Iowa and Wisconsin.

River Conditions.

Rain fell everywhere over the river basins, but there was not enough to affect the rivers. Stage at Pittsburgh is 10.2 feet; Dam No. 2, 8.1, and Dam No. 6, 7.7. The dams are up.

FEAR BOMB GUARDS JAWORSKI LOOT

CHARLEROI, Pa., Oct. 23.—A dynamite barricade is believed blocking the investigation of an abandoned mine shaft in Rodgers lane, Fallowfield township, where a portion of the loot taken by Paul Jaworski in the Coverdale payroll robbery is believed hidden.

Two weeks ago police moved to enter the mine and search the interior, following statements made by John B. Rodgers, owner of the farm on which the mine is located. Rodgers told police that on the afternoon of the Coverdale holdup an automobile was abandoned in the lane leading to the mine and two men ran into the pit. The next day he notice the mine entry had been "pulled in," dynamite having been used to seal the pit mouth. When Jaworski "bragged" of hidden money and a big "machine gun arsenal" in Fallowfield township, Rodgers explained the strange coincident to police.

Authorities later went to the mine and found two electric wires leading into the old pit despite the fact that the mine had never been so equipped when in operation years ago.

Police Chief Jack Thomas declared he had no authority to head an investigation of the mine. Droves of "treasure hunters" who believe that the mine may hold some of the bandit loot, just as did the cabbage patch at the Joe Weckoski farm in Fallowfield township, visit the mine daily. The two electric wires, sinister or harmless as they may be, which lead from a pile of limestone at the mine entry, into the pit have kept the treasure hunters away.

Stories of ruthless tactics of the "flathead gang" with Jawrski at its head, the incident of the dynamited armored payroll cars on the Coverdale road have sufficed to prevent any digging into the interior. The police never will attempt to enter the mine, Chief Thomas asserted.

place. Henry Tolson, also a Negro, testified that Rechtowick had struck McDonough as he was being ejected. He identified the other two defendants as having been with Rechtowick and having aided him.

Andy Kast, for the defense, testified that McDonough had come to the saloon drunk and quarrelsome, but the witness said he had left before McDonough was ejected.

Assistant District Atorney Earl Adair and J. Howard Devlin, engaged by Mrs. McDonough, are prosecuing the case. Attorneys C. B. Goehring and Julius Spatz represent the defendants.

A special car is scheduled to leave for Atlanta over the Pennsylvania Railroad today, carrying 15 Federal prisoners who are being taken to the Federal penitentiary to begin serving terms imposed upon them during recent terms of court.

United States Marshal J. C. McGregor with a squad of men will guard the prisoners. Among the prisoners is Robert G. Haberkorn, former teller of a Johnstown bank, who pleaded guilty to having spent funds belonging to the bank.

BRITAIN BARES FACTS ON NAVAL PACT WITH FRANCE

LONDON, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Publication of the British white paper on the Anglo-French naval agreement indicates that Great Britain intends to continue correspondence on the matter with the two governments which rejected the proposal —the United States and Italy.

A summary of the negotiations sent to all countries on the League of Nations' preparatory disarmament commission by Lord Cuhendun, acting foreign secretary, on October 9 states:

"While the Japanese government express their concurrence in the purport of these proposals (the naval compromise), the governments of the United States and Italy, for reasons which are clearly and cogently explained in their notes, have not seen their way to accept them. These communications are receiving the attentive consideration of His Majesty's government and a reply will be made to them in due course."

The documents also reveal that the British government gave reluctant recognition to the French position with regard to army reserves as the price of obtaining a naval agreement.

In a telegram sent by Lord Cushendun to Henry Chilton, British minister to Washington and in charge of the embassy there in the absence of Ambassador Howard, on August 10, he said that the British government had reluctantly "proposed to offer no further resistance to the French contention about military reserves at the present time." He added that it was not believed that any American interest could be prejudiced by this change of position.

AGREEMENT TEXT

The text of the agreement itself does not cover trained reserves, merely being an accord on naval disarmament which the United States found unacceptable. This text reads:

"Limitations which the disarmament conference will have to determine will deal with four classes of warships:

"1. Capital ships, that is, ships over 10,000 tons or with guns of more than 8-inch caliber.

"2. Aircraft carriers of over 10,000 tons.

"3. Surface vessels of or below 10,000 tons, armed with guns of more than 6-inch and up to 8-inch caliber.

"4. Ocean going submarines that is over 600 tons.

"The Washington treaty regulates limitations in classes one and two and the disarmament conference will only have to consider the method of extending these limitations to powers nonsignatory to this treaty.

6 DIE, 7 HURT IN HOTEL FIRE

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—(INS.)—Five men were burned to death and seven were perhaps fatally injured in a fire which swept a hotel near the downtown district here today.

The fire was believed to have originated when a guest lighted a cigaret in bed. The blaze swept the box-like hotel so rapidly that five men perished before firemen had arrived on the scene.

The hotel is one classified as a "flop house" in which hoboes are able to obtain a night's lodging for 50 cents.

tries and we are trying to do the best we can."

The agreement placing the lines under the traction conference board was believed to be a permanent solution of the problem at the time it was put into effect, Mr. Robertson said in describing its workings.

ASSUME BIG DEBT

"When we started to work under the board in 1924, after the receivers were discharged, we had to assume debts of the receivers amounting to $5,000,000. At the same time revenues started to decline." Mr. Robertson pointed to the fact that weekly passes and 17 5-cent fare zones had been established. Track had been relaid on 110 miles of line and 395 new cars had been purchased since the Conference Board started operations.

"This year's earnings have fallen faster than other years. We had to curtail expenses further than we had gone. We had to do something with the operations of cars. We tried to speed up operations. We had to change the habits of all of our motormen and we are having difficulty in doing it. When you have a union which sees men out of jobs, you encounter resistance.

WOULD REDUCE FORCE

"Once the slack is taken out, we will be giving best service to the public," he continued. "While we have it in theory at present, we haven't it in practice. We could have said, 'Let's the fares.' But we said, 'No, let's take the slack out of the organization.' Service is now getting better and we are making real progress."

He also pointed out that the street car company has $4,610,000 of matured bonds which have been unpaid and $14,500,000 more bonds which will come due in five years. "Our creditors don't know what to do with a railways company, so at present we are allowed to continue operating it and to pay the interest on the bonds. Eventually if we do not solve this problem the chediors will take what is theirs and some of the lines will have to be torn up. mf

LOSE ON BUSSES

"We have been charged with making all sorts of money on buses. Here is our financial statement for July, August and September. Gross revenue was $173,000, expenses $184,000, making an operating loss of 11,000. Interest on borrowed money was $5,000, making a total loss of $16,000 in three months. These were the worse months we have ever had. Lowes on new routes recently started have contributed to these results."

Mr. Robinson admitted, however, that bus revenues are now increasing. "When we had only three lines we made money," he said. "As soon as we added more lines we showed a loss." He made no comment on the profits to be expected when the new lines have become better established and a normal flow of travel has been attracted.

"In three years of operation," he continued, "we have paid no dividends and no profits have been taken out. If they are taken out they will go to the Pittsburgh Railways Company."

"The bus lines were started to take care of people who had no ordinary means of transportation. We are giving the best transportation possible.

"We cannot furnish, and I don't believe that anyone can furnish, bus service for much less than 25 cents. If we offered a 10-cent bus fare we would be taking people that now ride on the street car lines. We believe that the facts show the only way we can carry 1,000,000 riders a day is on the street railways. Busses cannot possibly do it.

"We feel that our interests are so allied that what is good for us is good for you. The community has the public service companies in its grasp. The Philadelphia Company has the greatest investment in this district of any company. We cannot move away.

CIRCUS TENT SAVES BALLOON JUMPER'S LIFE

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—James J. McFadden, parachute jumper, has had his greatest thrill and, incidentally, his closest escape from death.

McFadden, recovering in a hospital today from concussion of the brain, went aloft yesterday in a balloon as a special "stunt" for the Georgia State Fair.

A throng which idly watched him leap from the balloon, at a lofty altitude and drop downward, was heard to gasp a moment later when his parachute failed to open.

Helplessly spectators stood by, watching the jumper sprawling earthward at a terrific speed, until he finally disappeared on top of a large canvas tent which covered the main show of a circus.

McFadden, it was found, had landed on the canvas, head downward, but had escaped with only a slight concussion of the brain, was expected to be released from the hospital soon.

SEEK THUG WHO SHOT CHICAGO RAIDER

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—Squads of police and detectives are today combing Chicago's ghetto for the mystery assassin who shot and probably fatally wounded Thomas Ryan, veteran prohibition ace, as he stood in a Federal court room here awaiting to testify in a liquor case.

Ryan had just risen from his chair to be sworn as a witness when a pistol shot echoed through the room. Scores of dry agents, policemen, attorneys and court attaches stood rooted in horror as Ryan sank to the floor with a bullet in his back.

No sooner than the spectators recovered from the shock than a general panic ensued. A rush was made for exits, but they were repulsed by guns of Federal guards while bailiffs began a search for Ryan's assailant. No one was found bearing a gun recently discharged.

SHOT WRONG MAN

After more than three hours' investigation authorities expressed the belief that Ryan's assassin had been sitting directly behind him with a clear view of each witness and was waiting to kill Policeman Michael Shannon, who was to have been the next witness. The gunman evidently had his gun in his side coat pocket and was getting into position to shoot Shannon when, in nervousness, he accidentally discharged the weapon.

The theory that the gunman had intended to "get" Shannon was borne out by facts in a case being heard immediately prior to the shooting. Shannon shot and killed Silvio Colombo recently in a raid on an alleged bootlegging establishment.

Several witnesses to the shooting said they saw three men leave the room immediately after the shot was fired. Two of them were prohibition agents seeking a doctor. The other man did not return.

Injunction Ties Up Guffey

An injunction was issued by Judge Elder W. Marshall of Common Pleas Court restraining E. N. Gillespie, Joseph F. Guffey, prominent Democratic leaders, and others from removing certain securities from the court's jurisdiction on the claim of the Thermatomic Corporation that Guffey and Gillespie used certain funds of the corporation to promote other concerns in which they were interested and caused securities to be issued.

BEAVER, Pa., Oct. 23.—Averting the wreck of the electric coach train of the Cleveland and Pittsburgh Railroad, recently placed in operation between Rochester and Steubenville, O., Maurice Dye, 14, Midland High School boy, is lauded as a hero.

He found a large crosstie on the westbound track. Too heavy for him to remove, he ran up the tracks for help, and, seeing the train coming, he flagged it.

But for his timely action the train might have been wrecked. Officials of the railroad are investigating the attempt and believe it was the act of a disgruntled employe.

SMITH PLANS QUICK REPLY TO HOOVER

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.
International News Service.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 23.—Gov. Al Smith was knee-deep today in preparation for the opening of his eastern campaign in Boston tomorrow night, just as his opponent, Herbert Hoover, closed his eastern campaign with his speech in New York last night.

The next two weeks will see the Democratic nominee engaged in a final slashing campaign, ranging from Boston to Baltimore, and encompassing the great centers of population that are vital to both candidates in November.

Indications were today that Gov. Smith will lose no time in replying to the Hoover speech in New York last night. His first opportunity for such reply is presented at Boston toworrow night and his inclination today was to sail into it with all his accustomed vigor and aggressiveness.

It has been Gov. Smith's complaint, frequently voiced during his two speaking tours in the West, that Mr. Hoover declined to be drawn out on the big questions of the day. The New York governor has consistently shot shafts of sarcasm at the Republican nominee's silence concerning the issues which he raised in his western addresses—farm relief, prohibition and water power control.

In his speech last night, Hoover mentioned three issues, specifically and by name. He charged, in effect, that if Gov. Smith's ideas on these issues prevail it will amount virtually to a system of "state socialism," to use the Hoover phrase.

Those who know Al Smith and his pugnacious style of campaigning, and particularly his penchant for making a slam-bang finish, did not doubt today that tomorrow night in Boston and for several nights thereafter the Democratic nominee will go after his opponent's argument without kid gloves.

Prohibition and water-power control, two prime issues along the Atlantic seaboard, will be featured by Gov. Smith in his volcanic finish. On both issues he will challenge Mr. Hoover to clarify his views. Gov. Smith will tell his Eastern audiences, as he told those in the West, that he has definite proposals to submit on both issues. On the prohibition issue he proposes to amend the Federal Constitution and laws so as to allow each state, if it so desires, on a referendum vote, to engage in the sale of liquor to its residents. He will challenge Mr. Hoover to present a better plan to deal with the problem, and he plans to say with all the biting sarcasm he employs so effectively that instead of proposing an alternative remedy Mr. Hoover simply opposes the state going into the liquor business, preferring to "leave it in private hands, to-wit, the bootlegger."

"TIP" MAY SOLVE 1927 CHINATOWN MURDER

Through devious underground channels of Pittsburgh's Chinatown police believe they have solved the mystery of a Tong war murder committed March 24, 1927, when the Hip Sings and On Leong Tongs clashed and Yee Hong Wah was shot dead in front of 523 Third avenue.

A "straight tip" recently was whispered into the ear of a local authority that the man who did the killing was Gee Why, who for the past year and a half has been hiding out in Chicago. The tip included information upon which the Chicago police, at request of Pittsburgh police, arrested Gee Why yesterday in the Windy City.

City Detectives Jerry L. Deasy, of the homicide squad, late yesterday presented a bench warrant to Judge James B. Drew in Criminal Court. The Judge immediately signed it and a detective was dispatched to Chicago last night to bring the prisoner here for trial.

RECORD-SIZED BALLOTS DELIVERED FOR ELECTION

The first consignment of official and specimen ballots for November election was delivered to County Commissioners today.

This year 508,000 official ballots, the largest number to be printed in the history of the county, will be run off the press for distribution to polling districts in the city and county.

Owing to the number of candidates seeking election and the 14 state amendments to be voted on this year, the ballot for Allegheny county will be the biggest to be offered electors since elections were held in this county. The ballot this year will be 26 by 38 inches.

Many municipalities in the county are holding special bond issue elections. A number of communities will vote on annexation moves.

This year the ballots are so large that they must be crated before being turned over to judges of election. The first delivery today was a packet of 1,350 official and specimen ballots. It weighed 250 pounds.

The election law authorizes county commissioners to deliver the ballots to judges of election at their homes. How the election judges are to get the ballots to the polling places without added expense will be a question.

FIRE FIGHTERS DRENCHED BY HAIR TONIC, PERFUME

Pleasing odors of perfumes and hair tonic filled Smithfield street last night while firemen were fighting a blaze on the third floor of the Andrew Makrauer and Son Company, beauty parlor and barber supply shop, at 14 Smithfield street.

Battalion Chief William Graves estimated the loss at $1,000 But Herman Makrauer, a member of the firm, said the damage would amount to $10,000.

The blaze, of an undetermined origin, broke out on the top floor of the building which was stocked with barber supplies. Dense smoke issuing through the windows filled the New St. James Hotel and restaurant at 16 Smithfield street, and routed guests.

Several hundred gallons of the tonic stored in large vats were spilled into the street through the second story window, drenching firemen and perfuming the vicinity.

At the great tea expositions in Ceylon and India Lipton's Tea Estates were awarded the First Prize and Gold Medal for the finest tea grown.

6 BODIES TAKEN FROM W. VA. MINE AFTER EXPLOSION

BLAME FAULTY BLASTING; 60 OTHERS IN PIT ESCAPE

BECKLEY, W. VA., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Six miners met death in an explosion in the McAlpin Coal Company's mine at McAlpin, 10 miles from here, yesterday, it was disclosed today after their bodies were recovered.

The blast, according to Robert Lilly, state mine inspector, who led the rescue crews, occurred when a miner in removing slate, fired 10 sticks of dynamite without tamping the explosive.

Approximately 60 miners were employed in the immediate vicinity of the explosion, company officials said, but only those close to the spot where the actual blast occurred were affected. One man was taken from the mine, overcome by gas, but expected to recover. Rescue crews later located the bodies of six other men and said that all of the men in the mine had then been accounted for.

The six dead miners were B. D. Burhold, alleged to have fired the dynamite; T. T. Durham and his son, Richard; Laurino Reez, John Herriston and Alfred Davis, the latter two Negroes.

SEWICKLEY BANKER IN CHARLEROI CRASH

CHARLEROI, Pa., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Two persons were seriously injured today when an automobile driven by James Todd, Sewickley banker, crashed into a car operated by Peter Schug, Charleroi. Todd escaped unhurt but Schug was hurled from his machine and suffered head injuries. August Valenta, a pedestrian was hurt when the gasoline tank of Schug's car struck him.

OPIUM SMOKERS HELD BY U. S.

Whatever dreams that opium induce were rudely shattered today for James McCarthy, 23, of Glenfield, and Earl Randall, 23, of Fredericksburg, Va. City authorities turned the pair over to the federal government with a report that they were found smoking opium in their room in the Fort Pitt Hotel yesterday.

BURNED MAIL PLANE GEM SALVAGERS FACE ARREST

FRANKLIN, Pa., Oct. 23.—Postoffice Inspector William Tafel, of Erie, announced today that John Doe warrants for arrest of 87 persons will be issued tonight unless they return diamonds found at the scene of the fatal plane crash of Postal Pilot William Hopson.

A fairly complete list of those believed to have found diamonds has been compiled, Inspector Tafel indicated. More than 300 diamonds have been recovered, he said. The shipment, valued at $50,000, was buried in the wreckage of the plane. Federal reserve notes and negotiable securities, charred in the wreckage, were taken in charge by Inspector Tafel.

3-MONTHS SENTENCE FOR FREIGHT ROBBERY

Dewey McDaniels, Negro, was sentenced yesterday by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker to serve three months in jail. He was convicted of conspiring to violate the insterstate law pertaining to stolen freight. At the trial it was testified that rubber boots and shoes stolen from a Pennsylvania Railroad freight car were found in the prisoner's home in the Hill district.

VENANGO HOOVER VOTES SWAMPS SMITH IN POLL

Venango county will give Herbert Hoover an overwhelming plurality over Gov. Alfred E. Smith on the face of its completed returns in the straw vote canvass of Pennsylvania by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Hoover will do better in Venango county than President Coolidge did in 1924, it is indicated. Coolidge received 71 per cent of the total vote while Hoover is given 84 per cent of the straw vote total. On this basis, if there should be an increase of 10 per cent in the total vote this year, the outcome in Venango county would be approximately; Hoover 13,000, Smith 2,500.

This Allegheny valley county gives Hoover a 5-to-1 vote over Smith in the poll but in Oil City the margin is reduced to about 3-to-1. In Franklin the ratio is about the same as in the county generally. Women are supporting Hoover in the county better than 4-to-1.

Party defections are on the ratio of 64 Coolidge voters supporting Smith to 30 Davis supporters who now favor Hoover. This ratio is much higher in Oil City. The La-Follette support is divided.

The Pennsylvania poll, which is conducted in connection with the nation-wide canvass by the Hearst papers, reaches a total of 98,911 ballots with the latest returns. Hoover is leading Smith by 29,119.

The standing is: Hoover 64,015, including 51,906 men and 12,109 women; Smith 34,896, including 27,052 men and 7,844 women. This vote in 1924 was divided as follows: Coolidge 68,546, including 55,428 men and 13,118 women; Davis 10,691, including 9,018 men and 1,673 women; LaFollette 5,790; not voting 13,884.

MRS. ROXIE LONG HELD FOR USING GUN ON MAN

Mrs. Roxie Long, 1707 Cliff street, was held for court on charges of larceny by trick and aggravated assault and battery in Morals Court today, after it was testified she had knocked a man unconscious with the butt end of a shotgun in a melee last Friday. Her brother, Clarence Ristan, same address, was held on charges of pointing firearms and assault and battery.

According to the testimony of Vernon H. Price, Jr., wholesale fruit merchant, 3553 Gerber street, the trouble occurred last Friday when he and his driver, Roy Devine, 1104 California avenue, went to the grocery of A. Ristan, father of Mrs. Long, at the Cliff street address to collect $50.

Price testified Mrs. Long did not have the money and he ordered the driver to remove the goods which had been delivered to Ristan. Clarence Ristan dashed down stairs from the second floor with a gun, Price said. In the scramble, he testified, Mrs. Long hit Devine on the head with the butt of the gun and he dropped to the floor unconscious.

Mrs. Long denied all charges. Ristan, also arrested at the time, sent a physician's certificate that he was ill and his case was held over by Magistrate A. D. Brandon.

CITY MAY NAME BRIDGE FOR ENRIGHT, WAR HERO

Pittsburgh may soon fittingly honor the memory of Thomas Enright, one of the three soldiers from this city who, as the victims of the same shell, were the first from Pittsburgh to make the supreme sacrifice in the World War.

A suggestion was made to Council yesterday by John S. Herron to give the name of "Enright" to the Bloomfield Bridge connecting Bigelow boulevard with Liberty avenue at Main street. Enright lived in the Bloomfield district.

R. J. Alderdice explained he was in favor of the suggestion, but pointed out that it should not be definitely decided without consulting the relatives of the Pittsburgh hero.

President James F. Malone appointed Herron, Alderdice and P. J. McArdle to a committee to determine the relatives' attitude and make a recommendation to Council.

Herron's proposal recalled that Enright's name was selected for the new Stanley Company Theater on Penn avenue, near Beatty street.

STREET REFUSE CONCESSION UP IN COUNCIL

Council yesterday received an ordinance authorizing an agreement between the city and the National Sanitary Street System Company for the intallation of waste cans to dispose of refuse.

The company proposes to install and maintain without cost to the city 500 cans at locations approved by proper authorities for five years when a new agreement might be effected if both principals were willing.

The plan would save the city from $550 to $1,000 in first costs and about $20,000 annually in removal expense, according to a letter from L. S. Jacobs, president of the company. He also stated that the city would be freed of vexing problems incident to dumping.

In return for the concession the company asked the privilege of placing advertising posters on the four sides and tops of the dump cans. The ordinance was referred to committtee.

WIFE OF JUDGE THOMSON DIES

Born in Beaver, Pa., she came to Pittsburgh in 1894. She was a daughter of State Senator De Lorme Imbrie and she attended the public schools at Beaver and also the Beaver Academy and Beaver College.

She was former president of the New Future Home, was a member of the New Era Club and of the Literary Club of Ben Avon. She attended the Bellefield Presbyterian Church. She leaves her husband and two daughters, Miss Margaret Imbrie Thomson and Mrs. George O. Reemsnyder, of Wildwood.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

TEMPERAMENT

By ERIC HEATH

ELISE WILSON rose from her seat majestically, and looked haughtily from Director Conwell to Arthur Rose, manager of the Criterion Motion Picture Company.

"I ought to know best what sort of plays I can play," she declared. "Do you gentlemen mean to imply that I haven't made a success of 'vamp' roles?"

"Not at all! Not at all!" Conwell cried hastily.

"People are used to seeing me do siren things," she went on. "They like me in that type, for the simple reason that I'm fitted for such parts. I've built up a reputation for that kind of acting, and I don't intend to give up the headway I've made."

"But it seemed to us," Mr. Rose said, soothingly and half apologetically, "that you could handle this mother role in the new picture very well. We know you have versatility. Remember the characterization you had in 'The Outcast,' when you played the mother of the little pickpocket and—"

"That old picture!" Elise Wilson scoffed. "Why that was one of the first I ever made. Three years ago—nobody remembers that thing!"

"Then you won't even consider—" began Conwell.

"No. I have my career to think about. I'd rather forfeit my contract with Criterion than be made to play a role I don't think I'm fitted for."

Arthur Rose sighed.

"Then I guess there's no more to be said. We'll look around and try to get someone else for this mother role, and meantime, Miss Wilson, we'll see if we have anything that you will consent to play."

Elise Wilson disregarded the sarcasm, and, bowing to the two men, left the room.

Reaching her home, a picturesque little bungalow set in the midst of spacious grounds, she went directly to her bedroom to rest. She was not particularly worried about the interview she had just had with Director Conwell and Mr. Rose. She felt convinced she was too valuable a player to be dismissed by Criterion because she refused a role that had been assigned to her. In picture after picture she had succeeded as the seductress, and Criterion were aware that she was one of the favorites with movie fans.

It was while she was dressing to go out to dinner, that her maid entered the room, and announced:

"There's a man to see you, Miss Wilson. From the looks of him, I think he's come to apply for the job of gardener, in answer to your advertisement."

"Tell him to wait. I'll see him."

When attired in a magnificent dinner gown, she swept into the little reception room, a middle-aged man, shabbily but neatly dressed, got up from a chair and stared at her.

"You look—just the same," he muttered.

"I don't understand," Elise Wilson answered.

"I hope you won't think I'm bein' too forward, lady, but seems like I just had to come an' tell you. Seems like something has been drivin' me to come. I been out of prison two years now—"

The actress' face turned white and she stepped back. The man at once understood her confusion.

"Oh, don't be afraid," he said. "I ain't a crook no more. I've gone straight ever since I left 'the big house.' That's what they call prisons, see?"

"But I really don't understand—"

"Sure, but I'm going to tell yuh. The reason I've gone straight these two years, and mind, you, sometimes it was terrible hard too—well, the reason is that I saw that picture you was in, 'The Outcast.' I seen it in prison. I'll never forget you in that picture, lady. I suppose you'd think it was kinda soft an' all, but, honest, all the time I was lookin' at you in that there picture, I thought I was seein' my own mother that's dead. An' the little pickpocket that was your boy, I kept thinkin' he was me. It sure was strange. Most times I think pictures is a big joke, and can't be took serious. But I wanted you to know what your part in that there play done for me. Whenever I feel kind of slippin', I think of you and that pickpocket kid, an' I keep straight, no matter how hungry I am. Gee! It's funny, ain't it? I'm hard-boiled in other ways too. But you just got me in that, lady."

Elise smiled faintly.

"That's quite surprising," she said.

"I was goin' to write you," the man pursued, "but then I thought no, I better come an' tell you, so's you can see with your own eyes I ain't no bum any more." He straightened himself up proudly.

"Well, I'm very glad," Elise said. "Thank you for coming."

"I ain't got no job at the moment," he went on. "Some folks is so touchy about hirin' ex-convicts. You'd think they was dirt, or something. An' I never was in for nothin' worse'n highway robbery. That was the second time. The first time I was in for house breakin'. Them things ain't so terrible, but folks—"

"Do you know anything about gardening?" Elise asked. The man's face brightened.

"Not much," he admitted. "But, say, lady, if you need a gerdener give me a chance— I'll learn."

"Well, it's not such a difficult job, just keeping the grounds in order, watering the flowers, cutting the lawns, and things like that."

"Don't you think I'd suit?" he asked anxiously.

"Suppose I try you," she returned, smiling. He grinned like a happy schoolboy.

"Gee!" he said.

"And if you'd like to go into the kitchen, you can tell the cook I said to give you a good dinner," Elise added.

"Say, I'm glad you thought of that. I can't remember honest, when I et last."

After she had directed him to the kitchen, Elise went to the phone and called Director Conwell.

"It's Elise Wilson," she said, when she caught his "Hello?"

"Oh, yes?" he returned, coldly.

"Please don't be mad at me any more, Conny," she urged in her most coaxing voice. "I've changed my mind. A woman's privilege, you know. I not only will do that mother role, but I want to do it. How's that?"

"What's come over you?" he demanded.

"I got some dope—from one of my fans, that's all," she said, laughing.

Penn. Child Got Well Quick

"My little son, Billy, had a serious attack of constipation," says Mrs. Margaret B. Devine, 6032 Locust St., Philadelphia. "It left him very weak and pale. His bowels wouldn't act right, he had no appetite and nothing agreed with him.

"We decided to give him California Fig Syrup. It made him pick up right away, and now he is as robust and happy as any child in our neighborhood. I give California Fig Syrup full credit for his wonderful condition. It is a great thing for children."

Children like the rich, fruity taste of California Fig Syrup, and you can give it to them as often as they need it, because it is purely vegetable. For over 50 years leading physicians have recommended it, and its overwhelming sales record of over four million bottles a year shows it gives satisfaction. Nothing compares with it as a gentle but certain laxative, and it goes farther than this. It regulates the stomach and bowels and gives tone and strength to these organs so they continue to act normally, of their own accord.

There are many imitations of California Fig Syrup, so look for the name "California" on the carton to be sure you get the genuine.

Millions of Families Depend on Dr. Caldwell's Prescription

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their systems. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, cold and fevers.

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if you will once start using it you will also always have a bottle handy for emergencies.

It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for elderly people. All drug stores have the generous bottles. Or, to prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours, use this special coupon:

There are no bargains in health

To safeguard precious health and preserve your teeth, avail yourself of the best skill and knowledge of dental science. It is economy. It is the only reasonably sure means of preventing disease that attacks neglected gums, thus ravaging the system, robbing youth, and often causing loss of teeth.

See your dentist every six months.

Brush your teeth regularly. And don't forget that teeth are only as healthy as the gums. So brush gums vigorously, morning and night, with the dentifrice made for the purpose, Forhan's for the Gums. It helps to keep them healthy.

After you have used Forhan's for a few days you'll notice a vast improvement in the way your gums look and feel. They will be firmer, sounder—thus strong enough to resist disease. Also you'll find that Forhan's safely and effectively cleans teeth white and protects them from acids which cause decay.

There are no bargains in health. So obtain the best protection that money can buy. Get a tube of Forhan's from your druggist and start using it today.

Forhan's for the gums

EXPRESS THEFT LAID TO BOY

Accused of stealing packages from an express truck at Penn avenue and Seventh street, Ed Gayda, 17, of 3013 Bigelow boulevard, was lodged in the Central Police Station on a suspicious person charge, last night. He was arrested on complaint of E. Schwartz, employe of the Lighting Express Company, owners of the truck. During the last week more than 20 automobiles have been robbed of packages, the police said.

LINK SUSPECTS WITH OAKLAND ROBBERIES

Identified, police say, as the men responsible for five holdups in Oakland during the last two months, Pat Barrtt, 28, of Lydia street, and William McGraw, 25, of Romeo street, are being held in the Oakland Police Station.

They were arrested in their homes early Sunday. Police believe they are responsible for many other holdups and efforts will be made to connect them with the robberies.

When Pain Comes

Two hours after eating

What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drugstore.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

STOP BAD BREATH

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

Olive Tablets bring no griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after 20 years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take nightly for a week and note the effect. 15c, 30c, 60c. All druggists.

On the Peaks of Prosperity

THE Constitution of the United States was framed without special entrances to power and preference.

It cancelled silver spoon birth-rights and dropped a pass key to all public and private office into every cradle.

The underwriters of our independence abolished preferred shares and issued common stock to everybody.

They designed a cooperative enterprise, granting each citizen his voice in the management of affairs—equal franchises and equal liberties.

And it is the essential function of government to preserve and intensify such opportunity, to police the highways of ambition, conserve our common estate, promote initiative, umpire competition and protect it from foul plays.

So long as the best hands—and heads—may win, any shopkeeper's son may become another Morgan—any parson's youngster, another Rockefeller—any mill-drudge, another Carnegie—any chore boy, another Ford—any messenger, another Sarnoff—any salesman, another Rosenwald—any train butcher, another Edison—any blacksmith, another Vanderlip—any depôt master, another Jim Hill—any clerk, another Penny—and any homeless orphan, another Herbert Hoover.

The coming election is called under our by-laws to re-insure the guarantees under which American politics, finance and commerce have remained in the captaincy of competence, regardless of ancestry or life start.

It is called to take stock of Federal assets, review Federal stewardship and enable shareholders (or citizens) to continue the present board of national directors—that is (the Republican Party)—or vote a change of management.

That decision should rest with the country's balance sheet.

Your directors (the Republican Party) wish to report reduced debts and taxes, factories at full capacity, export trade at full tide, basic agricultural improvement. And the highest dividends of record.

These dividends are individual earnings in the form of wages, income and business profits.

Comparsion with any period in our development will show that the country was never more flourishing, never more contented, and never more confident.

A vote for the Democratic Party would be a vote for uncertainty and experiment at the high hour of American power and affluence.

A vote for the Democratic Party would be a vote at the risk of lower tariff, lower wages, lower dividends, relaxed immigration and prohibition laws, and a general withdrawal of investment funds.

Therefore, your directors, suggest it would be unwise to adopt the untried policies the Democratic Party wishes to inaugurate—policies radically different from those under which we are now so widely content and prosperous.

Republican policies have established peak outlets for automobile and implement plants—peak markets for glass, steel and apparel trades—peak prices for beef, wool and dairy products—peak employment and peak construction—peak wages for labor and peak receipts for capital—peak sales-records—and peak values for securities.

Republican administration has filled pay envelopes and order books—filled freight cars and garages—filled savings banks and warehouses.

Republican efficiency has cut working hours and raised workers' pay, restored to railroads, service, solvency and surplus, expanded and democratised credit, lowered rural money rates, covered the continent with good roads and strengthened the gate against foreign pauperism, products and entanglements.

The Republican Party marches to the polls under the banners of increased tariff, international independence, constitutionalism, law enforcement, permissable farm relief and impartial public service.

DAY LEFT IN 4TH PERIOD OF ZAIN AD CONTEST

Just another day and then...

If your ad for the fourth period of the Zain ad-writing contest is not in, you're out as far as the 300 or more prizes for the week is concerned.

For tomorrow night—Wednesday at midnight—all contestants should have their copy in the hands of the Zain editor, ready to be placed before the judges Thursday morning.

But there's tonight, and all day tomorrow to formulate your ideas and place them on paper. And remember, the idea's the thing. It should be fresh, and the result of a complete study of the subject. Read through the rules and you'll find that a good ad is not so hard to write.

VISIT ADVERTISERS

But be sure first of all to pick out the subject you wish to write on, visit the place of business if possible, examine the product of the particular concern and then, when you have the idea ready to be put on paper, just let it slip out naturally. And then your ad will be a good one.

For instance, if you were preparing to inspect men's clothing and write on this as your subject, why not drop in to the J. G. Bennett Company, 443 Wood street, where men's wear and furnishings are the principal specialty and stock in trade. Here, first hand, men can find a knowledge of their topic—about which they are going to write.

It seems to be indicated that, if a contestant would win a prize, he must know all about the topic. That has been so in all previous prize winners. The hundreds of them that have been awarded both cash and other prizes have known their topic from "A to Z."

GOT POINTERS AT STORE

This happens to be the case of the one who writes of Graham-Paige Motor cars, which make is featured by E. S. Carpenter, Inc., 4615 Baum boulevard, and associated dealers. It was an ad about this beautiful Paige that won last period's $100—and the student, M. A. Smith, who won it, visited and inspected the Paige so that he knew all of its wonderful qualities—where it excelled. He has also driven one.

ACTUAL USE BEST

Of course use of the product is the biggest advantage. It means personal contact. How easy it is to find the qualities of Palmer's Strikalite Matches? It's simply a question of "Asking Your Grocer." After experimenting with them, learning why they sell, and what their attributes are. The contestant then can write intelligently and from his own viewpoint.

It takes the deft, and the persistent ad writer to turn in a good ad on the Westminster Abbey of Pittsburgh—that magnificent mausoleum in Mt. Royal Cemetery, which foresighted men and women recognize as a monument to memories. In a setting hallowed by natural beauty, it offers to the observant a steady stream of thought—that will make good ads. Try it.

Read carefully the rules for the test and the list of 39 participating concerns. They will be found elsewhere on this page. To be eligible for the $1,000 prize you must write some time during the campaign at least one ad about each of these firms.

Write each ad on a separate sheet of paper, which should be at least as large as a postal card and preferably commercial letter size. Put your name and address on the back of each sheet, and also on the flap of the envelope in which you mail them. SEND THE ADS TO THE ZAIN AD-WRITING TEST, CARE OF THE PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH, PITTSBURGH, PA.

Rules for Sun-Telegraph-Zain $15,000 Ad Test

1—$15,000 in cash and prizes distributed over seven weeks. Grand prize, $1,000. Grand weekly prize, $100. Five prizes each week for best ads written for each concern participating—$25 each week, 1,170 prizes in all.

2—$1,000 for best ad submitted during entire campaign. Winners to be selected by committee of Pittsburgh advertising men and women.

3—Ads for fourth period must be received by midnight, October 24, at the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa. Ads arriving after that time will be automatically entered for the next period, and so on.

4—Ads submitted for the grand prize must be received before midnight on November 15, 1928. In order to compete for grand prize, contestants must have submitted at least one ad on each concern listed.

5—One person may submit any number of ads. The test may be entered at any time. Ads may be written about any one or all, or any product or all, of the concerns listed. A person may win more than one prize.

6—Write only one ad on one piece of paper at least postcard size. Place name of advertiser at top, write words, phrase, poem, slogan, essay or letter. Sign YOUR name and address plainly on BACK of each sheet. Also on the flap of the envelope. SEND TO THE ZAIN AD-WRITING TEST, CARE OF THE PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH, PITTSBURGH, PA.

7—Ads are to become property of advertiser to use in any manner he sees fit. No ads returned. No subscriptions necessary. No blanks to sign. No entrance fee required. No coupons to clip. All professional ad writers and newspaper employes barred.

8—In the event of a tie, the prizes will be awarded to EACH winner.

BRIDGE REPAIRS AGAIN ASKED

An ordinance authorizing an appropriation of $35,000 to finance repairs to Smithfield street bridge was presented yesterday to Council. The measure, sent back to the Department of Public Works last week, will come up today in committee.

The ordinance was accompanied by a letter from Mayor Charles H. Kline stating that an emergency existed, as the bridge was in need of imperative repairs.

Under the terms of the bill, $8,500 will be used on repairs to be made by city forces and $26,500 for work to be let to contractors.

The repairs will consist of strengthening main trusses, replacing lateral bracing, bolting traffic plates and substituting braces from the top of piers to the floor system.

AVERTS TRAIN CRASH BY DERAILING CAR

ROCHESTER, Pa., Oct. 23.—A bad wreck with probable loss of life was averted here by John Tesh, Darlington, lineman for the Beaver Valley Company, when he threw a piece of timber under the wheels of a street car, derailing it at the New York avenue grade crossing of the Pennsylvania Railroad, while a fast eastbound passenger train was passing. The car had got beyond control of the motorman and failed to enter the derailing switch.

BEAUTIFICATION OFFERED CITY

The barren hillside between the Boulevard of the Allies and Forbes street from Brady street to Craft avenue will be beautified without expense to the city if Council accepts an offer submitted yesterday by May, Stern and Company.

Leo Lehman, representing the company, forwarded a letter stating that his concern would be willing to finance the cost of landscaping the hillside and planting vines to cover the adjacent concrete retaining wall.

The letter urged Council to accept the offer and expressed the hope that it would stimulate interest in beautifying projects by prompting individuals and corporations to lend their efforts in making a more interesting city. The letter will be considered in committee today.

BROTHERS BURNED IN BOILER EXPLOSION

BAKERSVILLE, O., Oct. 23.—Floyd Garver, near Bakersville, was perhaps fatally scalded, and his brother, David, slightly burned, when the boiler of a steam engine exploded.

MABEL W. WILLEBRANDT TO SPEAK IN WHEELING

WHEELING, W. Va., Oct. 23.—Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant United States attorney general, will address a Republican meeting at the West Virginia State Fair Grounds at Wheeling tomorrow night under the auspices of the Hoover-Curtis Club of Ohio county.

Splendid Recipe To Stop A Cough That "Hangs On"

The best cough remedy that money could buy, can easily be made at home. It saves money and gives you the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs and chest colds, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and fill up with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. It's no trouble at all to mix, and when you once use it you will never be without it. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children really like it.

It is surprising how quickly this home-made remedy loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes and heals the inflamed membranes. At the same time, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes, and helps the system throw off the whole trouble. Even those severe coughs which usually follow the "flu", are promptly ended.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Cuticura Heals Eczema In Rash On Face And Scalp

"Eczema broke out in a rash on my face and soon spread to my scalp, making my hair dry and lifeless. The breaking out itched and burned, causing me to scratch, and scratching caused eruptions that used to bleed. It disfigured my face and my hair fell out when I combed it.

"I had been bothered with the eczema about three months when I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. I purchased more and after using five cakes of Cuticura Soap and four boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was healed, in about five weeks." (Signed) Peter Cronin, Jr., % Chas. PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Spirit of Halloween Grips Both Young And Grownups

THERE'S surely nothing festive in the drippy atmosphere today, yet as the end of October approaches a suppressed excitement is spreading everywhere. From children to grownups there is a spirit of fun, for Halloween is drawing near. There are always costume parties for children at this season, and Halloween dances for their elders.

Among the clubs planning to celebrate Halloween is the Pittsburgh Country Club, which will hold a dinner and dance in the clubhouse Wednesday evening, October 31. There will be dancing until 1 o'clock, you'll be glad to hear.

The Edgeworth Club always observes such events of the year as Halloween with a social event of some sort. The committee will present an entertainment in the clubhouse on Tuesday evening.

SOMETIME ago I mentioned that Emily McKeen Stuart, daughter of the James Lyall Stuarts, of Sewickley, probably would make her bow to the social world in late November. I missed by just one day, for the date set for this event is December 1 when her parents will hold a reception for her from 4 until 9 o'clock in the Allegheny Country Club. Her date, I believe I'm safe in saying, will be the last "coming out" event to be announced this season. From now on there will be many entertainments, though, for the debbies who have made their initial bows.

LAST evening I heard of a marriage that will interest many folks, that of Dorothy Elizabeth Braun. Her father, William Braun, of the Ruskin Apartments, has announced her marriage to Edwin Roscoe Underwood, son of Mrs. Joseph Holland Underwood and the late Joseph Holland Underwood, of Pittsburgh. The wedding took place on Saturday.

Dorothy, or as she has always been called, Dollie, is a graduate of the Winchester School and of Mrs. Dow's School, Briar Cliff Manor, New York, and Mr. Underwood of Penn State.

WEEK ends are not at all dull these fall days for Yale and Harvard students. They are noted among the guests at many a debutante event in New York and Greenwich and Stamford. Among those at the dance the Archibald Douglases gave for their debutante daughter, Katharine Elinor Douglas, Friday night in their New York home, was Paul Mellon, son of Andrew W. Mellon, who is a student at Yale.

THERE are a number of folks, I'm sure, who remember the Charles D. Terrys, who, until five years ago, lived on Parkman avenue. Since then they've made their home in Kewanee, Ill. Announcement has reached us of the engagement of their daughter, Katharine Charlotte Terry, to William R. Dooley, of Hammond, Ind., son of the Charles Dooleys, of La Salle, Ill.

* * *

LATER in the winter Pittsburgh folks will be going down South, but just now some southern folks are coming north on visits. Catherine Blackburn, of Birmingham, Ala., is now in Pittsburgh, and is the guest of Mrs. T. Coleman Ward, of Walnut street. This afternoon Mrs. Ward is giving a luncheon in the Twentieth Century Club for Catherine, who has many friends here, where she has visited before.

DOWN at Sewickley there are two important events today, socially speaking—the play, "The Whole Town's Talking," to be given tonight by the Sewickley Hospital Cot Club in the Guild Hall, and the tea Mrs. Henry R. Rea is giving at her home, Farmhill, this afternoon for women workers in the Allegheny General Hospital campaign for the proposed 15-story hospital. Mrs. Rea, as I've mentioned before, heads the groups of women workers.

* * *

MISS MARY GENEVIEVE HARRIS, of Harris Terrace, Crafton, has chosen Monday, November 12, as the date for her marriage to John Taylor Wurtz, of Connellsville. The ceremony will be performed at 9:30 o'clock that morning in St. Phillip's Church, Crafton.

Miss Harris is a sister of the late Senator John P. Harris and of Senator Frank J. Harris and Dennis A. Harris.

MRS. P. J. FITZGERALD, Mrs. D. S. Manning, Mrs. C. E. Rensel and Mrs. J. K. McCready will be hostesses at the card party to be held in the Sacred Heart Guild Hall this evening for the benefit of the Sacred Heart Church.

* * *

MRS. A. STUCKI, Miss Sara Robb, Mrs. F. G. Minick and Mrs. W. H. Connell, Jr., will be hostesses at the bridge luncheon for women members of the Shannopin Country Club and their guests tomorrow.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. R. F. TAYLOR, of the North Side, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Marion L. Taylor, to Robert J. Kredel, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Kredel, of Johnstown, Pa.

ROSE CHAPTER, No. 29, Order of Eastern Star, will hold a card party in Oppenheim-Collins' auditorium tomorrow afternoon, with Mrs. Eva L. Speer as general chairman.

THE annual bridge of the Alumnae Association of Mt. Mercy Academy will be held on Saturday, December 1, in the Hotel Schenley. Mrs. Gregory M. Schwan is general chairman, assisted by Mrs. T. Barnes Newell and Mrs. Leo J. Coyle, chairmen of prizes; Miss Florence Feeney and Miss Ursula Dowling, door; Mrs. Charles Loughney, tables; Mrs. Andrew Cancelliere, candy; Miss Cyrilla Mansmann, Miss Alice Houston and Miss Katherine Escher, tickets; Miss Dorothy Lyons, patronesses; Miss Dorothy W. Crannell, publicity.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. JOHN FULKMAN, their daughter, Miss Sally Fulkman, and Mrs. Fulkman's father, George H. Fulton, have left Regent Square for La Grange, Ill., where they will make their home.

SEWICKLEY WOMAN'S CLUB OPENS SEASON

THE Sewickley Valley Woman's Club had an auspicious opening for its thirty-second season when it observed president's day yesterday in the Edgeworth Club. Mrs. Marcus Woodward Stoner, the new executive head, the other officers and the board of directors received together informally. Mrs. Stoner and Mrs. John E. McKirdy, her predecessor, spoke concerning the bond issue amendments which had been indorsed at the State Federation convention. Mrs. Stuart Robinson spoke particularly of the welfare bond issue and the Metropolitan Plan was discussed by Frank C. Harper. A short piano recital was presented by Miss Marie Vierheller in two groups, the first consisting of classic numbers and the second of moderns. At the two tea tables, which were decorated with clusters of pale pink roses, Mrs. William Arrott, Mrs. George McKaig, Mrs. Alfred Harlow and Mrs. Tracy Guthrie presided.

CITIZENSHIP DAY is to be observed Saturday by the Woman's Club of Kiskiminetas Valley, which has distributed its new year books. Peace day on the tenth of next month will be followed on the sixteenth by a banquet at which the speaker will be Miss Anna Bird Johnston, a past president, who will tell of "A Summer Spent in Old World Haunts." The international art exhibit will be one of the subjects discussed on November 24 and the next month the club will have Miss Augusta E. Galster, of the state welfare department, as speaker. A New Year's reception will begin the latter half of the season, during which the club will consider such topics as "Americanization," "Scotland" (with the Rev. Dr. Walter L. Moser as the speaker) and "America's Great Outdoors," and will have a drama day, a book shower, a talk on "Old Fort Ticonderoga," by the Rev. Charles O. Frank; a description of her world tour by Mrs. H. C. Reller, of Pittsburgh; an address by Miss Bess Owen, of State College, and a music day. The annual business meeting on May 25 and the June outing are the final calendar events.

SCHEDULED in the new year books of the Woman's Library Club of Knoxville are "an evening with books," a Christmas party, a special program for the Girls' Auxiliary, a patriotic party, a program to be presented by representatives from the Workshop of the Blind, a talk by Mrs. Marshall McCracken and the annual business meeting.

CAN WOMEN of Average Means Afford Exclusiveness?

THE well recognized exclusiveness and style leadership of merchandise which comes from Kaufmann Looby has created an incorrect impression about our prices.

Kaufmann Looby makes no pretense of being a "cheap" store as that word is generally understood.

It holds no appeal for those with whom "cost" is the first and only consideration.

BUT

For that legion of discriminating women who must count their dollars, whose tastes revolt at the commonplace, whose pride demands the authentic unusual, the Kaufmann Looby store holds vital interest on price appeal.

Nowhere—and the word is used advisedly—nowhere we say, will things be found more reasonable when our prices are considered, in true relation to value received.

There is only one way to demonstrate this fact—your personal visit of investigation.

"How do you get such Gleaming Floors"

"All of my friends ask the same question. You would think I were a magician, but the whole secret lies in just a small can of Old English Wax that only costs a few cents.

"It not only gives the floor a real high polish but also removes dirt better than soap and water. And it takes but a jiffy to make ALL the floors in the house clean and fresh looking—whether they are wood, linoleum, varnished, shellaced or painted. Besides, you protect the surface against scratches and wear.

"You too, can have rich looking floors by stopping at your hardware, paint, housefurnishing or dept. store and getting a can of genuine Old English Wax. Made by The A. S. Boyle Co., Cincinnati, O., U. S. A."

The Town Hall

Should be down town central to all points of Allegheny County

We are urging the County Planning Commission and the County Commissioners to build the TOWN HALL on the large plot of ground of the Fourth Avenue Railroad Yard and adjacent property: bounded by Forbes Street, Liberty Bridge approach and Blvd. of Allies.

We are urging that the County Jail be removed and the site converted into a Public Square or Park; thereby creating a beautiful and magnificent Civic Center, of which the Court House (the Richardson Masterpiece), City-County Building, New County Building and TOWN HALL will each be an important part.

Our circular, entitled "TEN MILLION DOLLARS FOR A CIVIC CENTER," contains aerial photograph and street plan.

We will gladly mail one to you upon request.

COOKING SCHOOL NEWS

Mrs. Milholland points a way to better cooking flavors

MRS. Jennie L. Milholland is one of the hundreds of women who have written us, after following our suggestion to test Crisco by tasting it—just as a careful cook tastes her butter and milk. You'll be interested in what she discovered.

"I have been doing my own family cooking for more than forty years. Many years ago I discovered the good qualities of Crisco by tasting it in comparison with other cooking fats. I taste everything I cook, and I am guided solely by tasting until I have the right ingredients compounded to my taste. I use Crisco because I have for many years considered it the sweetest and most wholesome of all cooking fats."

Now, everything we cook is judged by its taste. But how can we expect our foods to taste good unless the things we made them of taste good, too?

Compare the taste of Crisco with that of other cooking fats. Had you imagined there could be such a difference? Think what an improvement Crisco's sweet, wholesome flavor will make in the taste of your own pies, cakes, muffins, biscuits and fried foods!

Tooth paste buys a muffler for Dad

It sounds mysterious—but isn't. Do a little arithmetic with us and find out. The average dentifrice costs you 50¢. You use about a tube a month. Twelve times fifty equals six dollars, the yearly cost. Listerine Tooth Paste costs 25¢ (the large tube). Twelve times twenty-five equals three dollars. All right. Six dollars minus three dollars equals three dollars, your annual saving. Spend it as you please. The muffler is merely a suggestion. You have a thousand alternatives. Hosiery, for instance, or gloves, or handkerchiefs.

Not by price alone did this dentifrice seize popularity

WHAT accounts for the immediate success of this speedy new dentifrice? Certainly not the price alone.

While it is true that at 25¢ Listerine Tooth Paste accomplishes an average saving of three dollars a year per person, over dentifrices costing double that amount, this would not carry it so quickly to a position among the leaders.

It is the combination of outstanding quality, unquestioned results, and a reasonable price, that has done the trick.

Naturally, such a price for such a paste is made possible only by ultra-modern methods of manufacture and mass production.

We urge you to try Listerine Tooth Paste. It will be a revelation to you.

Note how white it makes your teeth. How gently it polishes them—yet how speedily. Note, too, how cool, sweet and refreshed your mouth feels long after the brushing is over—that cleanly taste you associate with Listerine.

We are proud of this product, and we ask you to compare it with any paste, at any price and judge by results alone. At all druggists. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

SCHOOL BOARD PREPARES '29 BUDGET

Members of the Board of Public Education will begin budget making for 1929 at Monday night's meeting and at that time departmental estimates totaling $14,556,575.37 will be brought before the board.

While this is an increase of more than a half million dollars over last year's total it is expected that there will be no increase in the tax levy which has remained at 11½ mills for seven years.

The board expects to get deep into the work this week by working on the budget Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights. This will give them ample time to set the tax levy before the first Monday in December, the legal time limit. Most of the increase is accounted for in the salary list where the increase is $500,643.01. The estimates provide for 139 new employes, mainly teachers.

The board also discussed the purchasing of an athletic field for Peabody high school. Several properties under consideration were proposed and J. D. Hallman, chairman of the property and supplies committee was authorized to appoint a committee to study the properties and make a recommendation.

HELPED HIM IN WONDERFUL WAY

Says Local Man, Who Claims Benefits of Ten Herbs Were Far-Reaching.

"My system has responded to Ten Herbs in a wonderful way," was the recent statement of Mr. Charles T. Rafferty, 5219 Lytle Street, Pittsburgh, to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily demonstrating this tremendously successful herbal compound to crowds of men and women.

MR. CHARLES T. RAFFERTY

"Before I used your medicine I suffered so with indigestion that I had to leave work on several occasions," continued Mr. Rafferty, who is employed by the Carnegie Steel Co. "Even the slightest kind of food caused me terrible pain and distress—at times I could not retain a glass of water. Sometimes I was bothered with gas and severe headaches. I was subject to bilious attacks and at times go so dizzy that I feared I would fall. I had blurring of the eyes until everything would turn black in front of me.

"My nerves were unstrung. I could not sleep properly at night and lacked ambition and energy. Sometimes the pains were so bad across my back that I was afraid to bend over, and I had to take physics regularly because of constipation. I tried different kinds of medicines, but got no results.

"After reading in the paper that many local people were getting good results from Ten Herbs, I started using your medicine. I was surprised at the benefits that I received in a very short time. Food digests better and I do not vomit any more. My appetite is improving, and I feel a great deal better in every way. Ten Herbs has helped me in such a satisfactory manner that I gladly endorse it to the public."

Every day local people are reporting that Ten Herbs helped them to overcome such health troubles as indigestion, biliousness, constipation, pains and aches, or rundown condition.

The Ten Herbs Man is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine.

Two North Side Homes Ransacked During Daylight

ROBBERIES NET ONLY $1.25

Burglars yesterday ransacked two North Side homes and although they pilfered drawers and closets, only $1.25 was obtained. The robberies occurred during the absence of the families.

A rear door of the home of T. C. Hughes, at 3526 Simen avenue, was forced by the thieves who stole $1.25.

A neighbor discovered the glass panel broken in the door at the home of Edward H. Stamm, at 3537 Gerber avenue. Police guarded the place until the return of the occupants. Clothing was strewn about the house and police could not learn what had been stolen.

AVALON BOASTS 1,000 PUPILS

Avalon public schools have passed the 1,000 mark, S. Todd Perley, supervising principal, disclosed today.

The total enrollment this fall is 1,025, an increase of about 8 per cent over last year. Of these 470 are in the junior and senior high schools. Since erection of the new high school two years ago, high school attendance has leaped ahead.

North Side :-: Butler Roadway Near Completion :-: Link to Erie

READY OCTOBER 30

Through the North Side to Perrysville avenue and on out just a short distance beyond Wexford at the Butler and Allegheny County line, motorists formerly ran into a mud road. Now the road is paved and by October 30 the new state highway will be open through to Zelienople. Above is shown the beginning of the new stretch of road at the entrance to Dutilh woods.

SHORT ROUTE

The smooth cement roadway rolls through delightful farming country, over gentle slopes and banking curves, linking the North Side directly with Zelienople. Eventually the road will be improved to Meadville, offering the most direct route to Erie, 30 miles or more shorter than the present route.

GRINDING "BUMPS"

Finishing touches are being put on the roadway. Precision is the keynote of modern road building. Every little "bump" must be removed before the State Highway Department accepts roads from contractors. A machine is run over the roadway in the official inspection to record the slightest unevenness and every bump over one-fourth of an inch in any given 10 square feet is ground down.

FURLOUGHS OFF, MEN TOLD

The 21 Pittsburgh Railways employes who had been ordered furloughed from their jobs at the Homewood barns may still have their jobs for some time to come, the order having been withdrawn yesterday. No reason was given for the change in the brief notice posted yesterday at the barns.

The orders cancelling the furloughs also will keep 22 men employed at the Bunker Hill barn; 19 at the Craft avenue barn, and nine each at the Herron Hill and Butler street barns.

When the furloughs were first announced it was believed it was due to the desire of the company to operate one-man cars on the street cars entering Wilkinsburg borough. This plan is to go into effect the first of the month.

Wilkinsburg Council did not discuss the street car change last night at its regular meeting, as had been expected by residents of the borough. President John Rhodes called upon William M. Turner, chairman of the special Railway Committee, for a report on the matter but Turner stated the report was not ready.

BROKEN WRIST STARTS SIDEWALK REPAIRING

A woman who slipped and suffered a broken wrist started a wave of sidewalk repairing in Bellevue.

She sued the borough for damages, but the borough notified the property owner to defend the suit. The plaintiff won a verdict which was reduced by the court to $3,000. The property owner paid.

Chiefly to protect property owners, James Grenough, Jr., street commissioner of Bellevue, warned property owners to repair defective sidewalks. Residents heeded the notices and between 800 and 900 repair jobs have been completed. Sidewalks, as a result, are in thebest condition in Bellevue's history.

"The courts have held that the property owner is primarily responsible and the borough secondarily, for any defect in condition of sidewalks that might result in injury to pedestrians," said Borough Solicitor Harry J. Thomas. "There is even a case on record where the tenant was sued, but in that case the plaintiff failed to collect damages.

"The safe thing for every property owner to do is to maintain the sidewalks in front of his place in first-class condition and to keep them clear of ice and snow in the winter. He should do this for self-protection and for protection of the public."

WRECKED HOME, WANTS DIVORCE

While his wife was working in Sewickley from which place she only returned on week-ends, Carl M. Champion moved out the family furniture and now Marie Champion, his wife, 315 North Beatty street wants a divorce. Mrs. Champion told Judge Thomas J. Ford of Common Pleas Court who heard the case that she could give no definite reason for her husband's action other than he was dissatisfied. They were married in 1921 and separated in 1925. While their baby was in the hospital, where the couple met following the separation, she said her husband would not give her opportunity to talk to him. She charges him with desertion.

ASKS $50,000 IN GAS BLAST

Suit was filed in Common Pleas Court yesterday by Mary R. Stevenson, of 132 Velonia street, for $50,000 damages against the Equitable Gas Company and the Riter-Conley Company for the destruction of her home, November 14, 1927, when a gas tank of the gas company blew up and damaged a large section of the North Side. Mrs. Stevenson claims that the gas company was negligent for permitting the tanks to get out of repair and for allowing workmen to use acetylene torches. She says her home was shaken and demolished. She brings suit for $25,000 against each of the defendants.

Football Injuries Fatal

The first football fatality to be reported in the Turtle Creek valley occurred yesterday in the Braddock General Hospital where John Radochovich, 22, of 297 Pennsylvania avenue, Braddock Park, died as a result of injuries received Sunday. He suffered a fractured skull in a football game at East Pittsburgh.

According to members of the youth's family, he was a member of the Braddock Park "Arrows" and was playing against the Chalfont Tigers, of Turtle Creek. Radockovich, a backfield player, was tackled by an opposing player and failed to rise after having been thrown. He was taken to the hospital, where it was discovered his skull was fractured. He was unmarried.

Robbed as He Sits in Auto

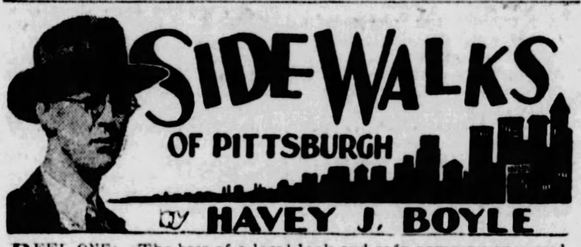
Approached by an armed Negro while seated in an automobile parked in Schenley Park early today, W. S. Errington, of 5505 Howe street, was robbed of $100 and his watch and chain.

According to police at the Oakland Station, Errington reported he had parked his car near the Circle when the Negro stepped alongside and robbed him.

HURT BY AUTO, 2 ASK $25,000

Two suits, in which the persons injured when an automobile overturned at New Texas, July 1 last, were guests, were filed yesterday in Common Pleas Court against Thomas S. Raymer, of McKeesport. Emory Robinson, who was badly hurt about the body, brought an action for $25,000, and David C. Raymer, who sustained a fracture of the right collarbone and was otherwise injured, brought a suit for the same amount through Attorney David A. Moritz, McKeesport.

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH



By HAVEY J. BOYLE

REEL ONE: The boss of a local lock and safe company answered the telephone. "Have you a man there who can open a safe?" was the query. "Yes," replied the boss. "Then please send him at once to the home of Simon Patterson, Darlington road."

The boss looked up his files and noted that the safe in the home of Simon Patterson had been installed by his firm. Such a request from a client was not uncommon. Accordingly, a legitimate Jimmy Valentine was sent out to open the safe.

However, that vague whisper of doubt assailed the uneasy ears of the safe company boss. What if this was a trick to break into Mr. Patterson's safe? The boss cogitated and worried. Then he decided he would find out. He called the office of Simon Patterson. A secretary answered. The boss almost slipped off his chair when he heard the secretary say "Mr. Patterson is not in the city and his home is closed."

What will be recorded here as "Gee Whiz," was ejaculated by the safe and lock company boss. Then to the secretary, the safe and lock man yelled: "You rush out to the house while I call the police." End of Reel One. Ladies will please remove their hats. Just a second for the next reel.

REEL TWO: The home of Simon Patterson. Mr. Patterson's secretary and a group of policemen from the Squirrel Hill Police Station made a hasty entrance. The police were following their pointed ptstols. A noise in a nearby room convinced the police they were soon to come upon their prey. With some stealth the cops leaped into the room containing the enemy and shouted as all good cops shout in a situation of this kind: "Make a move and you're a dead man. Hands up, there, and be quick about it."

A man tinkering at the safe threw up his hands as did a gray-haired, well-dressed and good-looking gentleman, whom the police thought was the most elegant suspect they ever had run against. "What's your name?" asked the police of the gray-haired man. "My name," he said, in a voice that indicated he was not entirely pleased with the proceedings so far, "is Arthur W. Thompson."

End of Reel Two. Just a minute, please, while we change reels.

REEL THREE: Mr. Thompson lost little time in convincing the police he was Mr. Thompson, former president of the Philadelphia Company. Followed a general hand-shaking all-around, with explanations and apologies following thick and fast. Mr. Thompson had sold his home to Mr. Patterson. He had left certain valuables in the safe and Mr. Patterson graciously had told him to drop in any time for them. Mr. Thompson dropped in, but unfortunately had forgotten the combination of the safe. Hence, the call to the boss of the safe company.

The boss of the safe company smiled and heaved great sighs of relief. Oh, yes, the bill for the workmen's time should be sent to Mr. Thompson in Philadelphia. Of course.

But a few days later the bill sent to Mr. Thompson came back with a curt note that Mr. Thompson knew nothing about any silly old safe. "Gee Whiz," or something like that was the remark that fell from the lips of the safe company boss. A neat plot, after all. But a few hours later came a telephone call from Mr. Thompson. His secretary had made a mistake. Of course, he would pay the bill. "Gee Whiz," or something like that, came from the lips of the safe company boss once more.

The End. Choose the nearest exit. Good night.

SWISSVALE WOMAN SEIZED AFTER FIRE

Following an investigation into a mysterious attempt to fire the home of Mrs. Marie Dolacki, 40, of 7501 Ellsmere avenue, Swissvale, yesterday, Fire Marshal Thomas Pfarr ordered the arrest of the woman pending further examination of the premises. She is being held in the Swissvale police station on a suspicious person charge.

Swissvale police were called by neighbors to the Dolacki home yesterday afternoon when smoke was seen pouring from a second floor window. Breaking into the house, firemen extinguished the blaze. They reported finding oil-soaked clothes on the floor and a half-burned candle lying nearby. Neighbors said Mrs. Dolacki had gone to Braddock shortly before the fire was discovered.

After a brief inspection of the property Marshal Pfarr ordered the woman's arrest. The husband, Steve Dolacki, is employed in a Rankin factory. According to Pfarr, the property was heavily insured.

The defendants rent the auditorium in the building they occupy to the Daughters of America, where Mrs. Bird was hurt while attending a meeting. She claims that the company was negligent in permitting the door to remain loose on its hinges. Attorney Walter L. Dipple represents the plaintiffs.

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.

Of all the comical things, the so-called local party leaders take the cake. Smith's leaders have assured him he will carry every state he has gone into, meaning he could carry all of them, but he don't like to travel so much.

Moses, the Republican apostle, told Hoover today that Smith wouldn't get 10 votes even on Oliver street, and that Hoover was a cinch for everything east of the Golden Gate, and a chance for a split in Honolulu.

How do they know what the people are going to do. You would think they had a sworn affidavit of every voter. Of all the "yes" men, they are the prize.

If either candidate believes one-half of one per cent what any of his henchmen say, then Hoover or Smith neither one are smart enough to be President.

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

STOLEN LOVE

by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Mrs. Barstow Pays Francine A Visit and Questions Her About Joan's Past

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Joan Hastings, seventeen and beautiful, lives with two old maiden aunts and one of them, Aunt Evvie, tells her of her unmarried mother's tragic love affair and death. Joan falls in love with Bill Martin, a penniless young man, and she is sent away to school. Bill, an innocent victim of a bootlegging gang, is sent to jail and Joan, begging for bail money from the aunts, confesses everything to them. She is put on a train for school in charge of a woman friend of Aunt Evvie's. Bill, freed, bids goodby to his mother, leaving no address and befriending Rollo Keyes, a rich young spender, is given a job by his father. Joan, escaping from the train, reaches his home just after he has gone. Concealing her presence from her aunts she gets a position in a department store and later works as a model in a smart shop. There Mrs. Barstow, a rich society woman, sees her, likes her and asks her to tea. She meets Curtis Barstow who immediately becomes interested in her. Joan goes to see Mrs. Martin and learns that Bill has written but has not asked for her. She thinks he no longer cares.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

NEAR Capt. Horner's old boathouse a woman stopped her. A dusky haired woman, with hard, dark eyes, and a drooping cupid's bow of a mouth, Dolores Gerwin, the wife of the garage man Bill used to work for!

"How do you do?" she cried. "Or maybe you don't remember me? You've changed a good deal yourself. I'm Mrs. Gerwin, I understand we had a mutual friend—"

"A—a what?"

"A mutual friend. Bill Martin you know. He sure did my husband a bum turn. Quit without a minute's notice. After all he did for him. I used to see him up around your place at night—"

Joan paled.

"Yes I'd see him as I'd go by for my evening walk. I always thought, 'It's none of my business, but if I was her, I sure wouldn't waste y time.'"

"I'm so sorry, but I can't miss my boat, Mrs. Gervin." Not even Aunt Evvie could have been more frigidly final than Joan.

Dolores watched her go. Her plump figure shook under its ruffles and bows and flounces of red dotted swiss. "Stuck up snob—I hate her—I hate her—"

Mrs. Martin "clearing up" happily after her caller dropped the gift darning basket and sent the spools and balls rattling over the floor. As she picked up Bill's picture she thought, "Now ain't that a shame! She forgot to give me that address after all—"

At the ferry building in San Francisco Joan was telephoning.

"Mr. Barstow. Yes, I'll wait for him.....Curtis.....I'm so lonely tonight. Would you like to take me out somewhere"

"Where have you been all day?" Curtis asked when Joan stepped into the car beside him "Mother says you weren't at the shop."

Joan's long lashes swept her cheek. She felt she could not meet his eyes. "I went to see an old lady across the bay. It was—sort of business."

"Important?" he smiled.

"Y-yes. But it's all finished now. I won't have to go back any more. Oh, Curtis—drive fast—take me somewhere out of town for dinner—I'm so tired—"

Her fingers curled around his hand. He looked at her compassionately. She was such a child. such an innocent, trusting child. To think of her in the notorious de Guitry woman's shop! A pity. A damn pity. Well, he'd see about that. Speak to his mother. She knew everybody. She'd find her something more congenial to do until.....until.....

"Do you know that I'm awfully fond of you?" he asked suddenly.

"I'm awfully fond of you, too," she said shyly.

"Joan how did you ever come to work in that infernal dressmaker's shop? Why, when I saw you that first night, sitting in the dining room in the candlelight I thought you were—well—one of next year's debs. I couldn't get over it when mother said you modeled dresses—"

"I had to do something—"

"Yes, but you're a thoroughbred, Joan. You show it. Joan you haven't told me a word about your people, you know my mother—don't you want to tell me about yours? It's not that I'm curiously—just friendly, Joan—"

"I know, Curtis. But there isn't anything to tell."

"There isn't anything to tell." What was she saying? What was she making him think? "I mean—I mean my mother and father are both dead—"her voice broke. "Poor child—poor little Joan—"

"Don't pity me, or you'll make me cry!' she said tremulously.

"He's so nice!" she told Maisie afterwards.

"He's sure attentive," Maisie agreed, "I almost wish he wouldn't send so much candy. I gained seven pounds since you met him. I guess I'll just have that one little piece of pineapple. Pineapple ain't fattening."

"You could do worse," Maisie concluded, "even takin' the mother-in-law into consideration."

"Maisie I tell you it isn't that kind of an affair. We're just friends!"

Maisie sniffed. "I wasn't born yesterday."

"Your a lucky girl,' Francine said meaningly. Commenting on the boxes of candy and flowers that came to her from Curtis.

"Lucky?" A shadow flitted across Joan's face. Lucky! Then she smiled. "I am—aren't I?"

Francine hesitated, started to speak and stopped. "Well, I don't know why I shouldn't tell you." she said at last. "Mrs. Barstow came in and talked to me yesterday—about you. Wanted to know your past." She chuckled. "The poor simp!"

Joan walked to the window, stood with her back to Francine, looking out. Her hands moved convulsively.

"I don't blame you being sore," Francine said. "The way some women think that just because a girl works she's no good is past me. Well, I certainly gave her an earful. When I got through telling her how butter wouldn't melt in your mouth, and what a comfort you are to my aged mother she was wondering why the angels didn't swoop down and take you up to heaven, like little Eva. But it shows she's noticed her young son has serious intentions!"

"He hasn't!" Joan cried fiercely. "He hasn't. I wouldn't have anything to do with him if he had—we're just friends—we like each other—and—"

"I'm sorry I spoke," Francine said coldly. "I thought you had more sense. At least have the goodness not to speak of it to anyone."

"I wouldn't."

"And I'd advise you to cultivate a little more self-control," Francine concluded before she banged the door into the workroom, "for you're not quite so indispensable as I gave Mrs. Barstow to understand. I'm not used to being shouted at in that manner, Joan Hastings—and I won't have it—"

"I can't stand it," Joan thought wildly. She pressed her handkerchief over her quivering mouth. She had almost screamed!

And through the gray mist of fear that shut off from the shop, from the salesgirls, from everyone else in the world, she saw the hilltop again, saw herself smiling up at a boy proudly, and saying:

"I'll never regret it—I'll never be sorry—ever—"

She shut her eyes.

After a long time Francine came back. "Hope you don't think I meant all I said, Johnnie. It's my temperament, and the dull season—"

CHAPTER XV.

LYLE BARSTOW lingered over her toilet, added a touch of rouge to her pale lips. She wanted to look especially lovely for her son. Curtis had always been sweetheart to her, as well as son. She had kept young for his sake. "You're my girl!" he used to say, laughing, bringing her flowers or bonbons.

Lately he had forgotten that. He was neglecting her. And she knew why.

"If it were someone else I wouldn't care," she thought. "Someone from our own set, Kathleen Hughes. No, she's such a selfish thing—but someone. Not a girl out of de Guitry's shop—"

She was going to speak of it, after dinner. It was hard to find just the right opening. Curtis was restless, uncommunicative.

"I was in Francine de Guitry's shop today," she said guardedly.

And instantly, he was alert, interested. "See Joan?"

"No, I talked to Francine—"

His nose went back in the newspaper.

She came and sat on the arm of his chair, drew his smooth head back against her bosom. "Curtis—"

"M—mm—"

"Curtis, on the one night you're home won't you talk to mother? We so seldom see each other any more. Of course, I'm getting to be an old woman—"

"Now you're fishing," he smiled. "You know you put all the young girls in the shade."

She looked down at her slender ankle in its cobwebby gray stocking, to hide the small, gratified smile she couldn't suppress. She began again. "Curtis, you won't mind if I speak very frankly about Joan?"

She felt him stiffen, but she went on. "I do admire her, tremendously. She is making a brave stand, and for her own sake, as well as yours . . . my dear, don't you see you can't help her by taking her out so much—"

"I wasn't trying to help her. Merely enjoying her company." He was getting that set look about the mouth that always meant trouble.

"Yes, dear, but is it quite fair to the child? It will be misinterpreted, of course, and in your position, can you afford"—

Then Curtis answered. In all the years of his life he had never spoken to her like that. It wasn't that he forgot the difference and gentleness that she had always taken as her right. He was as gentle and smilingly affectionate as ever. But he utterly, completely, disregarded her wishes. He hoped she would overcome her prejudice against Joan because it wasn't worthy of her. It would grieve him very much to feel that she didn't also love the girl he was going to marry. He fully intended to marry Joan. She was his ideal of clean, unspoiled, American womanhood. She was beautiful, she was intelligent, she was charming, and sweet-tempered. His mind was fully made up. And that was that.

For the first time in fifteen years Mrs. Barstow cried herself to sleep.

TEMPER, ENEMY OF BEAUTY

Drawn by Dorothy Flack

WOULDN'T it have been wonderful if Pandora had just curbed her curiosity and left the casket closed, so that all the nasty troubles and cares of the world would never have appeared? Just think! There'd be no more Beauty spoiled by Temper. For Temper is Beauty's worst enemy. No matter how wonderfully lovely you are, Temper can take all the loveliness out of you. For it distorts and changes every feature—and Beauty becomes the Beast.

No matter how plain, a smiling face is worth more than all the gold of the earth. It is only when Temper is aroused that one is ugly. So see that you keep Temper far away from you. If you are plain—smile! There'll be a beauty there that Love is sure to find. And listen! Love never seeks an ugly temper. Rather he steers clear of it, for it is the surest way of killing love.

So see to it that the smiles which chase each other across your face stay there always. Don't lose them to Temper, or some day you'll awaken to the fact that Love has passed you by. And then what? Well, loneliness and heartaches and regrets—and none of these are pleasant comrades.

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

Eight Rules for Wives.

HERE are Eight Simple Rules for Ruling a Husband.

Of course, if you are ultra-modern and prefer your "independence" to your peace of mind, and your "self-expression" to your husband's love, you won't see the point of following them. But if you prefer harmony to alimony, you will always find them good.

* * *

1. Never wake him up in the morning. If he cannot wake of his own accord, leave orders with the maid or the hall-boy to call him. But don't YOU agree to be his little alarm clock. Nobody loves an alarm clock!

HELEN ROWLAND

2. Never worry him about his digestion. When you see him trying to commit suicide by stuffing himself with all the things that disagree with him just shut your eyes and pray for self-control—and remember that it's a pleasant death.

* * *

3. Never tell him what you've been doing all day. As soon as you TELL him it ceases to be of the slightest interest to him. Talk to him about art, books, the neighbors, psycho-analysis, the price of potatoes or the beautiful shape of his nose—but NOT about yourself. It's only what he thinks he DOESN'T know about a woman that interests any man.

* * *

4. Never complain when he makes a curio shop of your living room and a junk shop of the kitchen. Dogs, monkeys and men simply MUST collect, hoard and hide things. They don't know why. They all have the "save-its."

* * *

5. Never consult him about your clothes. If he happens to observe your new hat or frock and admires it exclaim: "I'm SO glad, dear!" If he doesn't admire it exclaim: "I'm SO sorry, dear!" and go right on wearing it until he becomes used to it. Next spring he'll want to know what you've done with that "pretty hat." A man's middle name is "Habit."

* * *

6. Never ask him why he is late, where he has been or what he has been doing. He will tell you only as much as he wants to, anyway. Nobody loves an "investigating committee." And a little "questionnaire" in the home is a terrible thing!

* * *

7. Never nag him about "mussing up the house." A house that can't be "mussed up" is no "home" to any man. Leave the "house beautiful" to the department stores.

8.—Never cherish the hope that you can train him to keep early hours. A man is like a cat, and if he has no other place to wander he will wander about the house nights. Every husband was once a bachelor and they all have the midnight habit. Just let him prowl!

* * *

If you follow these rules you can break all the Ten Commandments with perfect safety and still retain your husband's love.

No siren can lure him from you!

* * *

Love him—And LET HIM ALONE!

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, October 24

A DAY of extraordinary events and conditions is shown by a powerful array of the determining planetary influences. The energies and faculties may be stimulated to high pitch and initiative, which may have reactions in employment, bold and original ventures, in trade, in letters and all pertaining thereto. The financial status is encouraging and general progress is foreseen, but in new undertakings there is need for protection against fraud, intrigue and duplicity. Personal matters may give concern.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of keen activity and progress in every direction, pushing forward all projects and ambitions, but guard against fraud and duplicity in new ventures and with combines or rings.

A child born on this day may be exceedingly versatile, clever and enterprising and should succeed in anything undertaken in a large and adventurous manner. While equipped for government employ it may suffer through intrigue and may not be fortunate in its relations with feminine interests.

Where order in variety we see, and where, though all things differ all agree.—Pope.

Love's Embers

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife" By Adele Garrison

Madge Sees Lillian's Smoldering Love Awaken

IT was many days before we discovered the meaning of the question Harry Underwood kept repeating in his delirium, "Well! Lil, how about it? Will it do?" And while that question and the one of life itself for the intrepid adventurer lay delicately balanced upon the scales of fate, all our little world of the farmhouse was animated by but one thought, anxiety for the man who had made so effective and spectacular an atonement for his crazed, drink-caused treachery to his country, and to Dicky, his best friend, in the early days of our participation in the World War.

The farmhouse was unwontedly quiet during these days of watching, its number of occupants materially reduced. Allen Drake had gone with the cringing, baffled Sergius for the final steps in the crushing of the conspiracy of which even now I had far from complete knowledge. The Princess Olina, recovering from the shock of the night, had arisen to the occasion with a resourcefulness surprising to me.

"I'm going to The Larches at once," she said the morning after the capture of Sergius, "and you must let me take everybody over there who isn't needed here. That will give you a quiet house for Mr. Underwood, and it will be my salvation. I should go insane over there by myself."

"I accept your offer gladly," I said promptly, for it at once solved a distressing problem for me. Before nightfall, Mother Graham, zealously guarding Junior, Mary Harrison, outwardly submissive, but inwardly raging at her enforced proximity to the girl she so disliked; Marion, Lillian's winsome daughter, ignorant of the identity of the wounded man, and vaguely troubled at being separated from her mother, and finally, Katherine, secretly charged with the task of keeping peace triumphant in the oddly assorted group—all these were cozily installed in The Larches. In the farmhouse beside the wounded man and the nurses, were left my father, Lillian, Dicky and myself, with Katie and Jim to take care of us.

My father, though not seriously ill, was decidedly not well, his condition, aggravated by excitement, and I spent much of my time in his room, evading Dicky as much as possible. I had been curiously upset on the night of the capture of Sergius by my fear for my husband's safety, and by my thrilled pride in the way he unexpectedly dominated the situation. Ever since that night the realization that I was capable of such reaction toward Dicky had troubled me sorely. I had schooled myself so long to comparative indifference toward his actions or his opinions that it was as if that protection suddenly had been stripped away. I did not know my own heart or mind. I only knew that I wanted to keep out of my husband's way until I had the opportunity to analyze my feelings and decide what attitude I meant to take toward him.

That another emotional conflict, similar to mine, and yet different, was going on in Lillian's heart, I knew from the deeply etched lines around her mouth, and her haggard pallor whenever I saw her. My problem concerning simply my own heart and my husband's was much less complicated than Lillian's. Against her Quixotic, conscience-lashed conviction that she was responsible for the wreck which Harry Underwood once had made of his life, and her desire to atone to him, were pitted her lavender-scented memories of her romance with Robert Savarin, and her adoration for her young daughter, Marion, the ruling passion of her life.

It was on the fourth day after the physician had pronounced danger past for Harry Underwood that Lillian summoned me.

"Will you bring Marion over to your room and let me see her there?"

"Of course," I said quietly, but I had hard work to keep from exclaiming at her dead white face and the look in her eyes. I was sure that she had come to some momentous decision.

"And will you send a message to Phil to come over some time today? Harry is anxious to see him."

I nodded, but I gave that message to Dicky. Not in these days of high-trigger nervousness would I endanger an explosion by myself telephoning my employer. Then I hurried to The Larches, returning almost immediately with Marion, whom I ushered into my room, where Lillian was waiting for her. My heart ached for both of them as I closed the door gently, for I knew there was something akin to tragedy in the interview before them. A half hour later Marion came out, her face pale, but smiling, and with her mother's arm around her, went down the hall to her stepfather's room. Before that interview was finished Dicky came to my door.

"Mr. Veritzen is downstairs," he said stiffly. "Will you come down?"

"Please tell him that I am unable to see anyone today," I answered with an odd thrilled amusement at seeing Dicky's face relax from its grimness. "Marion is in Harry's room now with Lillian. As soon as they come out I'll send you word, and Mr. Veritzen can come up."

When Lillian brought her young daughter from the sick man's room and put her into her own to rest—I guessed intuitively that Marion would not go back to The Larches—it was Dicky himself, on his best behavior, who escorted my employer to the sick man's room, and who ushered him ceremoniously from the house when the interview was ended. I drew a long breath of relief as I heard his car roll away. Later, of course, I would go back to my work with him—my contract was not yet ended—but just now I was too emotionally shaken, too absorbed in a more vital problem to tolerate any distraction.

Hours afterward, when the invalid had wakened from a restful nap, Lillian came to me again.

"Harry wants you and Dicky to come to his room," she said hurriedly. "Don't act surprised at what he will tell you. I don't want him to think there is anything extraordinary about it. And don't be affected by the decision I have made. Your problem is different than mine. Don't be rushed into a solution of it."

When we came into the sick room the invalid looked up at us with his old twisted grin.

"Well, Lady Fair!" he said. "I'm like a kid with a Christmas present—can't wait until I show off to my pals—and you and the Dicky-bird are those—all there are. I couldn't wait any longer to let you know that the old girl here is going to give me another chance, and so help me——"

"Tell them about the play, Harry," his wife interposed hastily.

"Don't want any of the solemn oath business, eh? Lil?" he said shrewdly. "Well! I can't blame you. It's like this," turning his face toward us again. "Awhile ago I sent old Phil Veritzen a play, anonymously, but it seems the fox knew my style, or thought he did. Anyway, he's going to give it a bang-up production and wants another one. So I'll be able to provide a bit of jam for the 'wife and the kiddie.'"

He drawled the absurd words in his old ridiculous fashion, and we all laughed with a heartiness that showed under what a tension we were all laboring. But I saw his face paling, realized the interview was too much for his strength, and signaled as much to Lillian. He would not let us go, however, until he made us form a circle of hands with him.

"The old quartet together again," he murmured weakly when we had humored his sick fancy. "Just like the old times. God's in His Heaven, and all the rest of it."

My knees were trembling so that I could hardly walk from the room. Dicky stopped me just outside the door.

"I don't expect you to subscribe to that speech," he said. "However—don't you think we could make an attempt to pick up the pieces again?"

But I could not hear in his voice the note which would have made the appeal irresistible. Without it I could not yield, wholly.

"I don't know, Dicky," I said sorrowfully. "But at least I'm willing to try."

He caught me to him with a little stifled exclamation, kissed me roughly, then almost pushed me away.

"We'll start from that, then," he said as he walked swiftly to his own room, leaving me uncertain if he meant my words or his caress.

But I was certain of one thing at least. The embers of my love for Dicky had not died out altogether. They still were capable of flame.

How to Keep Well

By Royal S. Copeland, M. D.

Frequent Dangerous Results From Heavy Lifting

COMING from New England stock, I love the rocky shores and stone walls of that section of America. I am writing on a train between New York and Boston. Just now we are running through Southeastern Connecticut. It is a wonder to me that these stony acres are not more thickly dotted with summer homes. They are sure to be in time.

DR. COPELAND

But I'll wager the pioneer men and boys saw nothing picturesque in the stone walls, now moss covered and hoary with age. The backaches caused by building them were too fresh in mind. The gnarled hands and bent shoulders were mute evidences of labor all too difficult.

It is probable that "rupture" was very common in those old days. Of course, the hard work which began in earliest boyhood had hardened the muscles and that fact helped to guard them against this particular defect. But, nevertheless, it must have been a common trouble.

Unaccustomed, hard, manual, muscular labor is bad for people. They must break into it gradually. Just as the athlete must go into training for the contest, so must men and women accustom themselves slowly to the requirements of any hard task. In factories and warehouses, in the field and mill, in every calling in life where heavy lifting is demanded, there must be gradual training or serious effects will follow. When boys leave school to go to work, they must not jump into unfamiliar physical efforts. They and their employers must keep this fact in mind.

Speaking in the terms of geology, there is a "fault" in the abdominal wall, which causes that part to be weak and sometimes unable to resist undue strain. Heavy lifting may cause the thin tissues under the skin to give way. When that happens, the gut, the intestine, may find its way through the opening. A knuckle of intestine may crowd into the opening, as a man's finger finds its way into the finger of the glove.

When such an accident occurs, there will be observed a swelling or prominence, a tumor, in the lower part of the abdomen, to one side. This we call a "hernia," or "rupture."

There is another form where the tumor is in the groin. That is merely another variety or location of the hernia.

While such an occurrence is disturbing, it does not become serious unless a section of intestine, getting into this space, becomes cut off, pinched by the constriction of the opening. In that event it may become "strangulated," choked and endangered by the pressure of the pinching tissues.

There are measures, mechanical and surgical, used to control or overcome the rupture. Your doctor will explain these to you.

It is my purpose today merely to call attention to the possibility of such an accident and to warn against it. It does not pay for a person unaccustomed to heavy lifting to indulge in it if he can escape doing so.

Sometimes lifting a heavy automobile tire into the rack behind the car may be too much for the weak tissues in this part of the body. If you are in training, taking regular exercise, particularly in bending, stooping, or other movements tending to strengthen the abdominal wall you must be careful.

HOW TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Makes One Look Younger

Men and women who used to be called Grandpa and Grandma are now setting the styles by darkening their gray hair at home.

For instance, J. A. McCrea, a well-known Californian, recently made the following statement:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture in five minutes that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. Merely take a half-pint of water, add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ ounce of glycerine.

"These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at trifling cost. Apply to the hair twice weekly with a comb. It does no color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and will not rub off."

BULLET WOUND 5 YEARS OLD IS FATAL

A bullet wound suffered five years ago when he was shot down in the street by an insane man caused the death last night of Anthony Vuskovic, 24, of 2510 East street, North Side, in St. John's Hospital, according to a report to the morgue. He died as a result of an operation.

The man was shot while walking in the street in Philadelphia, where he was attending school. The bullet passed through his arm and lodged in his left side. A lump developed near a vein in his arm and it was to remove the lump that the operation was performed yesterday.

Coroner's Physician Dr. J. W. McMeans, who performed the autopsy last night, removed the bullet from the man's side.

The suit is against Everett Miller, of Washington, who, Mrs. Carnahan alleges, was hunting rabbits before sunrise, and shot Carnahan as he sat behind a pile of cornstalks.

Never an Iron on My Hair

Wherever my theatrical engagements happen to take me I could have a marcel, but I never do. I prefer my own method—waving my hair with my Wave and Sheen.

I always keep my hair clean by shampooing once a week. I apply Wave and Sheen with a comb. You can use a brush, or just your hands.

I dampen the hair with it—insert combs in the direction I wish the waves, tie a veil over my hair and keep it on for about an hour. Some types of hair require more time, some less.

Edna Wallace Hopper as she looks today

The result is a soft, lovely, undulating wave. Most people in my audiences think I have it marceled. Many ask whether it is a natural wave. It is not.

You can have this same sheen no matter what method you use to wave your hair. Get a bottle at any toilet counter for 75 cents. One trial will convince you as it has thousands of others.

PAULINE FREDERICK ENACTS "THE IMPERFECT LADY" WITH A REAL BABY

By GEORGE SEIBEL.

TO HAIL a new star on the theatrical firmament is a glorious privilege for any critic. Last night this opportunity came at the Pitt Theater when a most delightful little actress was carried upon the scene by Pauline Frederick, who perhaps imagines that she is the star of "The Imperfect Lady." Not so! Miss Frederick has more experience in emotional and comedy scenes, and is a real artist, so she will not be jealous of the popularity achieved by this other member of her company, who has not even a speaking part, but who captured the hearts of the large audience at once. This twinkling little star is on the program as Flora Mae, and she plays the Baby who provides all the comedy and all the emotions in the drama written by Zelda Sears and Reita Lambert. If Flora Mae continues her triumphant career upon the stage with as much favor as she has begun it, Ellen Terry and Eleanor Duse will be forgotten.

Zelda Sears has woven a very amusing and sincere romance about this delightful Baby, brought home by the heroine in the first act, after she has spent some time in New York. The small-town gossips at once start wagging their tongues, till every man in the town is more or less under suspicion. Agatha finds that her supposed sin has made her more popular than her respectable past—and even a scholarly young university president who is writing her distinguished father's biography is quite willing to accept her with the baby. Which confirms all that has been written of the attractiveness of that infant!

Rarely does so unpretentious a play show such fine craftsmanship. It is hardly exaggerated in any of its phases; the characters sound true; the dialogue has the tang of human nature, even where it is touched up with cleverness. In the third act, which is the test of good drama, the suspense does not relax until the drop of the curtain—and the apparently derelict lover actually furnishes a valid and convincing alibi. There are many little episodes overflowing with humor, like the conference of the ladies scenting scandal; many little episodes moist with real tears, like the proposal of the druggist—but this is a play that's genuine all through. Even the Baby is genuine—and quite the prettiest and best-behaved stage infant the most exacting critic could demand.

Let no one think that this twinkling little star shines alone. Miss Frederick is best known as a moving-picture actress, but she can take her place among the best of the speaking drama, either in comedy or in serious work. As Agatha Marley she has a role that gives her rich opportunities, and she improves them. By the simplest of methods her luminous intelligence makes the character thoroughly credible and sympathetic.

And she is surrounded by a cast of even excellence. Two men do acting of extreme difficulty: Paul Stanton as the rich lady-killer and Thomas Holding as the scholarly lover, both make their roles live. Margaret Bird as Mrs. Duncan furnishes a most vivacious bit of comedy as the gossipy uplifter who neglects her own daughter. Norman Peck as the druggist and Burdell Jacobs as an expressman contribute other moments of appealing humor. Nor must one forget Zelda Sears herself, who appears in her own play as a spinsterly housekeeper. She acts well her part, and she has been happy in the production of this comedy—but then what dramatist would not do well in writing a role to fit little Flora Mae for her debut?

BRINGING ILLUSION :-: TO :-: STAGE AND SCREEN

Pauline Frederick plays the lead role in "The Imperfect Lady," comedy in the Pitt.

Selena Royle is the "feminine interest" in "Davy Jones' Locker," showing in Nixon.

May McAvoy is prominent in "The Terror," mystery talking film shown in the Stanley.

Frankie James is featured in McIntyre and Heath's "Headin' South," Alvin offering.

Phyllis Haver plays in the D. W. Griffith film, "Battle of the Sexes," in the Penn.

Liberty Has Biblical Film

Cecil B. DeMille's picture, "The King of Kings," is having its first showings in East Liberty in the Liberty this week. "The King of Kings" devotes its story to the last year and a half of the ministry of Christ. In the cast are H. B. Warner, Dorothy Cummings, Ernest Torrence, Joseph Schildkraut, Jacqueline Logan, Rudolph Schildkraut, Victor Varconi, William Boyd, George Seigmann and Kenneth Thompson. Short film entertainment completes the bill.

CREEPY FILM SHOWN IN STANLEY

"The Terror," photoplay feature in the Stanley, makes an advanced step in the picture in which dialogue between characters helps to tell that part of the story usually left to subtitles. In this lies much interest. Yet the picture would be novel entertainment were there no audible effects, since it takes mystery melodrama to the screen, successfully retaining both dramatic and comedy elements without burlesqueing either, maintaining an even balance in a story in which mystery is not revealed until the finale. The action takes place in an old house that is made a private hospital and the title is derived from one of the characters who terrifies all the others. There are murder, detectives, spiritualism, sliding panels and clutching hands if you care for things of that kind. Much of the dialogue is natural and some of it seems to come out of a barrel, but hollowness of tone is not a drawback in a picture of this type. Sally Rand, screen actress, appears at the head of a dancing act given as a stage specialty, in which she is assisted by Jack Crosby and Harvey Karels. Overture, organ specialty and short screen features complete the program.

Comic Heads Sheridan Bill

Harry Holmes tops the new three-day vaudeville bill in the Sheridan Square in an act, "The Pessimist." Holmes' boast is that he doesn't smile, but the audience does. Jean Rankin and her Ten Blue Belles, melody girls, present some novelty in musical entertainment. Jack Harvey and Betty Burnett offer a comedy skit, "A Modern Flirtation." Joy and Roy do acrobatic feats and Cuth, Carman and Cuth entertain with songs and music. The photoplay is "Fazil," featuring Charles Farrell and Greta Nissen. Short film entertainment is on the bill. There is an organlogue also.

SEA ALL WET IN NIXON DRAMA

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS.

"Davy Jones' Locker," as a title for a play, denotes an atmosphere of the sea and implies to a playgoer of romantic imagination the tingling sensation of an hour or two or rollicking devilry amidst rough fellows mellowing deeds of villainy in a spirit of "Yo-ho-ho and a bottle of rum" and things like that. Alas for what a play title connotes and what the actual play develops. Romantic imagination is left to its imaginings and hope that looks for another Long John Silver and the thrill that comes when a jolly crew of cut-throats gets into action proves to be just a hope and nothing else. For "Davy Jones' Locker," as presented in the Nixon last night, in its first performance on any stage, just failed to click.

This melodrama, by Richard Barry, who was present at the premiere of his brainchild, tells the story of a salvage ship which goes to raise from a sunken vessel gold sent to Davy Jones' locker by torpedoes of the World War. The crew, led by the mate, mutinies, slays the diver and wounds the captain, who is left for dead. While the diver is being consigned to his watery grave the ship's cook, finding the captain alive, conceals him and leads the mutineers to believe he has thrown the officer to the fishes also. About this time a woman climbs over the rail of the vessel, followed soon after by a man. A trans-Atlantic flying lady and her pilot. The ex-mate, now skipper, wants her. So do a couple of the most villainous of his crew. The two latter shake dice for her and the ugliest looking one wins. This, of course, is subrosa. When she retires (are you still following me?) something appears in the darkness and she screams. Denouement and the end of the first act. About an hour long.

Well, to condense, the pilot of the airship, dons the diver's suit to salvage his wrecked airship, and the mate, dirty skunk, threatens to let him die for want of air unless the flying girl submits to him. She escapes, climbs to the pilot house, dives off. Second act curtain. Swimming under water the heroine frees her pilot. The crew mutinies again, and puts the mate in irons, from which he escapes only to be shot by the captain, who appears from his hiding place. There's a little more, too, but you get the general idea, don't you?

Among the company are four good players, Selena Royle, as the girl, G. Pat Collins, as the mate, Alden Chase, as the pilot, and George Tawde, as the skipper.

CANTOR TOPS SHOW IN HARRIS

Cantor Josef Rosenblatt, well-known Jewish singer, received a very cordial reception in the Harris yesterday. He is headlined in the new three-day bill in that theater. The Cantor, though billed as a "tenor," displays a voice that also blends some of the qualities of a baritone and soprano. He also displays keen vocal control. He sings in a number of languages and his program includes "Song of the Volga Boatman," "The Last Rose of Summer" and "Eli Eli." William Boyd makes a rather handsome gesture in the title role of "The Cop," the screen feature. It is built along the usual underworld-thriller lines. Chester Spencer is quite the funniest thing on the vaudeville bill. He has Lola Williams, his wife, and a grownup daughter along with him. Spencer isn't a bit high-brow, he says, and to demonstrate he goes into a lengthy explanation of all his jokes that fail to go over. Emory Manley and Company offer an interesting novelty act of vocal imitations. Mildred Force has a pleasing song act. Gordon and Grace whirl wagon wheels and batons about. The bill includes some other numbers.

LIVELY SHOW ON ALVIN STAGE

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH.

Those perennial habits, Mr. McIntyre and Mr. Heath, have brought their familiar and black faces to the Alvin this week. You see them as a couple of minstrel troupers. They also have brought with them a peppy chorus and a cast of talented principals. The title of their new musical comedy is "Headin' South."

And we can record, before going any farther, that Mr. McIntyre still complains that he wished he had stayed in the livery stable where he was sure of three squares a day. As usual, Mr. Heath answers, "That's all right if you like oats."

But don't get the wrong idea. The boys still retain that peculiar complex of theirs for getting the laughs out of trifles. And what they do in the way of murdering the English language is good for some more chuckles.

As already intimated, "Headin' South" isn't just the newest thing when it comes to jokes and gags. Others besides the two featured comedians get away with some moss-tinted ones also. But last night's audience laughed at them all just the same. But there is newness and youth in the piece—in the songs and melodies, for example, and the lively chorus. Newness, also, shrieks from the scenery and costumes. But this is to be expected for "Headin' South" is of comparatively recent birth, and, in reality, is heading for Broadway.

There is an abundance of song and dance. There are numerous specialties. The song hit, we take it, is "Mister Mississippi." This is effectively sung by Harry Stockwell and a large male chorus, which includes a number of real Negro voices. The setting is a levee at Natchez. Last night's audience took quite a fancy to this and applauded three times for more.

The production introduces a talented young woman, Jane Taylor. She has an alluring personality and an attractive voice. Lillian Rosedale and Vivian Holt appear as two darkie mammies and shine bright vocally when they present an Old Fashioned Medley during the final scene of the first act. This scene, one of the outstanding ones in the production, is really a minstrel show, with McIntyre and Heath starring as end men, and the entire cast helping along. Frankie James is prominent in specialties.

Among the featured strutters—and they are numerous—is Mabel Elaine. And when Mabel cries "get hot," you should see that chorus work. Space does not permit a detail of the many specialty acts.

Briefly, "Headin' South" is a mighty lively stepping show. It abounds in color and has some catchy melodies. And, as cited before, the blackface clowns, Mr. McIntyre and Mr. Heath, are their same old selves. And we must mention the darkie who says melody with a shoe rag, and Mr. Heath's watch chain which has links the size of a quarter and a brass horse charm the size of a cheese sandwich.

Emil Jannings Is Regent Star

"The Patriot," a sound picture starring Emil Jannings, is now being shown in the Regent. But though Jannings is the star, he is far from the whole show. In fact, Lewis Stone, who also has a prominent role, steals honors from Emil in some sequences. The story concerns Paul I, mad czar of Russia, who is murdered through the betrayal of his friend. Jannings is seen as the czar and Stone portrays the friend, the czar's prime minister. Short film entertainment is on the bill.

Starved Love Aldine Theme

"Mother Knows Best," developing a theme that mother does not always know best and based on the Edna Ferber story, is current in the Aldine. The cast includes Barry Norton, Louise Dresser and Madge Bellamy. The plot concerns a love-starved actress, whose mother stands, as a cloud between the moon, blotting out all romance from her daughter's life. And, as the mother, Miss Dresser is reminiscent of her glorious achievement in the long-ago picture, "The Goose Woman." There is something about her that is almost majestic. You note it in the pose of her head and in the way she moves in and out of the scenes. As for Young Norton, he fares better than in his mama-boy role of "What Price Glory." He lives to come back from the war. The picture has sound effects and dialogue. There is a sicked scene that is a bit "over-sobby." Other sound and spoken features are on the bill.

Harold Bauer and Ossip Gabrilowitsch, pianists, will open the seventh season of the DeLuxe Concert Series Thursday evening in Carnegie Music Hall. Their two-piano concert last season was much appreciated here.

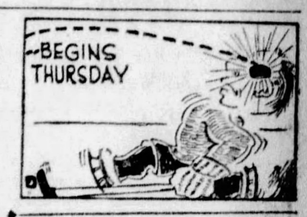
Rosenbloom Repeats Win Over Garfield Johnson

SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS

BEST IN PITTSBURGH — TUESDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1928 — TWENTY-ONE



SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

Death of Jack Dunn Ends Notable Baseball Career—Found and Sold to Majors Babe Ruth and Many Other Stars—Drury Back On Hockey Job—Boucher Still Holdout.

JACK DUNN, owner of the Baltimore International League baseball club, who died suddenly yesterday after a career of nearly two decades as one of the most prominent figures in the minor circuits, had two particular claims to fame.

Babe Ruth

One was that he found Babe Ruth and sent him to the major league, and the other was that he established the world record for consecutive pennant victories. From 1919 to 1925, inclusive, Dunn's Baltimore club won the International League pennant seven times in succession, an achievement never paralleled in any league.

ONE peculiar fact in connection with the finding of Babe Ruth and his sale to the majors is that, though Dunn developed and sold a number of additional stars later for huge prices, he received for the Bambino, who was destined to become the most valuable player in the history of the diamond sport, only a picayunish sum as compared with the sums that he was paid for the others.

Ruth had been with the Baltimore team only three months when he was sold to the Boston Americans on July 8, 1914, for only $2,900. After the 1919 season, Boston sold the Babe to the Yankees for $125,000, and since that time he has become so much more valuable that the Yankee bosses would not consider his sale at any price.

THE reason why Dunn let Ruth go after a short period in his service, and for such a low price, was that the Federal League had put a team in Baltimore, and the opposition was so strong that the Oriole owner was forced to dispose of some of his players on account of financial straits. Ernie Shore and Jack Egan were sold to the Red Sox along with Ruth, forming Dunn's first big sale.

In 1915 the Federal League opposition in Baltimare hurt the attendance at the Orioles' games to such an extent that Dunn transferred his team and franchise temporarily to Richmond, Va., moving back to Baltimore in 1916 when the Feds had disbanded.

WHILE close to being on the rocks financially, Dunn started to build again from the ground up and made such remarkable progress that not only was he soon on his feet again with a great pennant-winning team in Baltimore but was able to buy temporary control of the Newark club as well. During the championship reign of his Orioles he developed more star players than any other minor league manager in the country, but persistently refused for a long time to sell them. Meanwhile major league bids for those players were steadily going higher, and when Jack finally started to market his product he received for them prices that eclipsed any ever paid for minor league timber.

Bob Grove

THE $12,000 that Dunn received for Lefty Russell, who was a failure with the Athletics, was considered a high price at that time, but it appeared absurdly small in comparison with the sums he received for others later. He was paid $65,000 and three players for Jack Bentley by the Giants after the season of 1922, $50,000 for Max Bishop by the A's after the race of 1923, and $105,000 for Bob Grove by the Mackian club following the campaign of 1924.

In addition, Dunn received correspondingly high prices for Joe Boley, sold to the Athletics, and for Alphonse Thomas, sold to the White Sox. Besides the cash in the Thomas deal, the Orioles also got Outfielder Maurice Archdeacon, then rated the fastest man in baseball. Apart from those named, Dunn developed Bob Shawkey and Dave Danforth, and Ed Rommel and Frank Ulrich are others who practically began their careers under his management.

DURING his playing days, which began at Binghamton, N. Y. Dunn was first a pitcher and later a second baseman. He broke into the majors in 1897, when the Brooklyn Nationals bought him from Toronto. He pitched for Brooklyn from that time until August, 1900, when he was released to the Philadelphia Nationals.

The Phillies released him in May, 1901, and he joined the Baltimore American League team, with which he finished the season. In 1902 he pitched for the Giants. Then he became a second baseman and played that position for the Giants in 1903 and 1904 and later for several other clubs before becoming owner, president and manager of the Baltimore Internationals in 1910.

IN CONNECTION with Red Grange's statement that he may take a day off as an "actor" and break into a professional game of football before the season is ended, a belated story comes from the University of Illinois about a professor in psychology who once spent two weeks studying the former grid sensation. The professor made the following report: Grange differs from the ordinary football player in that he senses where an opening will be. Most players get the ball and run toward a hole in the line. By the time the players reach the openings they find them closed and they are smothered under a pack of tacklers. Grange would sometimes run toward a mass of players, knowing instinctively that there would be a

BIG ONES IN FAST BATTLE

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

MAXIE ROSENBLOOM put on another great show at Motor Square Garden last night. The bounding, slapping, cuffing, smacking light-heavyweight of New York romped through 10 rounds with Garfield Johnson, the Negro flash of Lawrenceville, to win all of them and repeat a former win over the local man. He won about as he pleased after a bristling start, in which Garfield sought to rob him of some of his speed afoot and vim, vigor and vitality by roughing him up on the ropes and in the clinches.

Open warfare flared in the second round, in which they spoke harsh words to each other, and at no time during the 10 rounds was that ring safe for even a referee. From rope to rope they bounded, with Maxie always having more than the regulation number of gloves to rain upon Garfield and the latter always fighting back hard and ofttimes even pressing the going, generally in the face of a hurricane of leather.

A FIGHTING FIGHT

Yes, sir, it was a FIGHT.

A hard one for Garfield and not a soft one by any means for Maxie, who, although he won all the way, had to step faster and hit oftener and harder and take more socking back than he has in any of his previous appearances here. He faced an opponent who never stopped trying and, although tiring fast, was stepping right along with him to the final bell.

This fellow Rosenbloom is a master showman. Fighting along the helter-skelter lines of our own late Harry Greb, he is a tough hombre to outsmack and there are few who are capable of the task, so Johnson was anything but disgraced in falling a victim to his prowess for the second time. They maintained a pace throughout that would have shamed most lightweights, and for a one-sided fight it was one of the most interesting imaginable.

Johnson was at his best late in the first round, throughout the second, a wild fighting session, and the sixth round, in which, after being slapped down coming out of a clinch, he jumped up and tore into Rosenbloom sending him back against the ropes with right and left to the head, slipped to his knees again and then chased Maxie again, crashing a right to the jaw that shook up the New Yorker against the ropes. He would have carried this sixth round but for Maxie's early big lead. The final round saw Rosenbloom fighting hard to increase his margin of victory and he made Garfield break ground and hold on to him and the ropes in the clinches for breathing spells, but Garfield came back and was trading punches at the bell.

Garfield weighed 173¾ pounds and Rosenbloom 169 at 3 p. m.

BAD DECISIONS AGAIN

Off-color judging again marked the preliminaries, Johnny Kusic, of Youngstown, had too much boxing class and scored too cleanly for the willing but short-armed Young Rudy, of Charleroi, in the six-round semi-final, but the judges split and the referee's decision gave the award to Rudy. Judge Brown voted for Kusic and Judge Simco and Referee Al Grayber for Rudy.

U. S. Carpentier, of New Kensington, came back after a poor start and shaded Frankie Buff, of Natrona, in another six-rounder, and rightly was awarded all three votes. The lanky Buff made Carpentier appear amateurish in the early rounds, but tired and was hanging on throughout the last round.

YANK STADIUM CAPACITY TO BE 125,000

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Jake Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, hopes to increase the seating capacity of the Yankee Stadium to 125,000 within a year. The stadium will comfortably accommodate 72,000 at present, although more than that piled in to see a crucial doubleheader between the Yankees and the Philadelphia Athletics late in the recent campaign.

Although no definite plans have been made, Ruppert hopes eventually to have the field completely circled by a covered stand. The first step in the program is to replace the present center field bleachers with a concrete bleacher section. Then an upper deck of wood will be built to discover if it will have an adverse effect on the lighting on the playing field itself. If players complain that the shadows are interfering with their handling of hit balls the upper deck will be torn away.

If these plans go through the park will accommodate 125,000 for football or boxing and about 100,000 for baseball. Ruppert hopes to have the improvements completed by late next year or in the spring of 1930.

TUG PHILLIPS, SAYLOR LOSE

Pittsburgh district boxers engaged in a number of battles aside from those at Motor Square Garden last night, with the following results:

Tug Phillips, Fayette City lightweight, lost a 10-round decision to Danny Cooney, of Trenton, N. J., at Johnstown. On the same card, Frankie Porto, of Clairton, lost in six rounds to Johnny Chiodo, of Johnstown; Battling Gizzy, of Donora, defeated Tommy Lavery, of Philadelphia, in six rounds, and Harry Miller, of McKeesport, lost to George Pavlik, of Johnstown, in four rounds.

At Oil City, Patsy Gallagher, local featherweight, defeated Young Billy Wallace, of Youngstown, in the six-round semi-final to a bout between Freddie Fitzgerald and Johnny Shupack, while Jack McCarthy, local welterweight, was knocked out in the third round by Young Guido, of Sharon.

Young Saylor, of Charleroi, substituting for Jack Katkish, lost to Henry Firpo, of Louisville, in 10 rounds at the Jolly Bowl, New Castle. Jack McFarland, Wilkinsburg featherweight, was knocked out by Joey Goodman, of Norfolk, Va., in the second round of the semi-final, and I. Iovano, of Swissvale, lost to Tom O'Leary, of Scranton in four rounds.

At East Liverpool, O., Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, defeated Al Kindler, of Alliance, in eight rounds and Freddie Boylstein, of New Kensington, won over Johnny Vivio, of Bloomfield, in six rounds.

Herman Folins, of Ambridge, former local amateur, making his professional debut, won over Johnny Gaito, of Yonkers, N. Y., in a six-round bout in New York.

RUNNERS REMATCHED

NEW YORK, Oct. 23—Joie Ray and El Ouafi, long-distance runners, have been rematched for a race in Philadelphia on October 30. El Ouafi defeated Ray in Madison Square Garden here Sunday night.

Jack Dunn, Oriole Owner-Pilot, Dies

BALTIMORE, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Jack Dunn, owner and manager of the Baltimore Orioles and an outstanding figure in minor league baseball circles for years dropped dead from a heart attack yesterday while riding his horse at field dog trials at Loch Raven. He was 55.

While astride his horse Dunn slumped in his saddle and fell to the ground. Doctors said he had died instantly.

Rev. J. T. Coolahan, Catholic priest, acting as one of the judges at the trials, administered the last rites for the dying. As the priest murmured the prayer for the moribund, groups of men and women who had participated in the trials, stood about with saddened mien.

Dunn had been under doctor's care for some time with a heart ailment which, friends declare, dated from the death of his son, Jack Dunn, Jr., five years ago. The death of the younger Dunn, who was his father's idol, cast a permanent damper over the jubilant spirit of the father.

Mrs. Dunn, when notified of the death of her husband, was prostrated and is confined to her home. Others surviving the noted sportsman are a sister, Mrs. P. J. Spain, a brother, James Dunn, of Chicago, and a grandson, Jack Dunn, III.

BORN IN MEADVILLE

Born in Meadville, Pa., on October 6, 1874, Jack Dunn started his baseball career on the sandlots. He rapidly climbed the ladder in his chosen sport until he became sole owner of the Orioles. Under his leadership the Baltimore team won seven consecutive International League championships from 1919 to 1925, a record unequaled by any other club.

Dunn first played baseball with the Binghamton club in the late nineties. He was known as a great pitcher. Later, he went to the Philadelphia National League team and in 1907 was appointed manager of the Orioles. In 1910, he took over the ownership of the club and since that time has been owner and manager of the team. His only other big interest, outside of his ball club, was his string of field dogs. Many of his hunters had appeared in trials in various parts of the country.

A number of stars in the major league ball clubs were developed in the game under Dunn's guidance. Babe Ruth found his start in organized baseball with Dunn's team. Lefty Grove, Joe Boley, Jack Bentley and George Earnshaw are among many others of the big cir-

BETTING FAVORS PLAID

By JESS CARVER.

PITT and Carnegie Tech have begun preparations for their fifteenth meeting on the gridiron—said meeting to take place in the Stadium Saturday afternoon.

The game has more than its share of interesting angles. The most interesting perhaps, may be seen in the fact that a Pitt team will be on the short end of the betting for only the second time in the history of the Tech-Pitt duels and in one of the few times that a Panther varsity has squared off against any opponent the second choice.

In 1926, Carnegie Tech beat the Panthers 14-0 in the Stadium and justified the 10-8 odds its backers had offered prior to the game. Last year, Pitt was a decided choice and the Panthers stood by their backers, scoring a 23-7 win. Only twice in the long series between the two schools has Tech, in the role of the under dog, succeeded in toppling the Panthers. Carnegie won in '23, by a score of 7 to 2 and repeated in '24, 6 to 0. Against this record of three victories, Pitt has a total of 11 triumphs to offer, scoring the first back in 1906. There you have a won and lost history of Pitt-Tech football battles.

START FINAL DRIVE

The rival squads began the final week of training for the annual city classic yesterday with light workouts on their respective practice fields. Tech, tickled over its second victory in 17 tries over Wash-Jeff, had some of the weak points that cropped up in the game on Saturday pointed out by Bob Waddell.

Coach Sutherland set to work bolstering his line and perfecting the team's aerial attack at Pitt. Allegheny's fullback star, Garbach, ripped some fair-sized holes in the Panther forward wall. The Allegheny backs ran the Panther ends with far too much success to suit the local coaches. While the Methodists were beaten, Pitt's general play was not the sort to enthuse over. None of the Panthers were severely injured in the contest, though Tom Parkinson, the fullback threat, took some hard battering and will need to rest this week.

Pitt and Tech, priming for their city classic, are not in for any harder work than Elmer Layden has planned for his Dukes. The Bluffites, undefeated in four games, have the test of the season ahead for Saturday. Geneva is to be played in a game that will likely settle the 1928 Conference championship and Geneva showed crushing power in beating Thiel on Saturday.

Duke' scouts who watched the Covenanters again the Lutherans brought back tales calculated to cause sober thought on the part of the Duke players. The locals did not look overly impressive against Loyola University on Saturday. Layden told his players yesterday that they are going to have to work harder and play better football than they did for Wash-Jeff if they hope to beat Geneva.

EXTENSIVE trading among big league clubs is likely to feature baseball's off season. The managers and owners of many teams appear restless in this direction.

Now that the football is in the ascendency the heads of the diamond sport may see fit to hold back in their public actions in order to get the benefits of greater publicity. With football holding the center of the stage big items of baseball, which ordinarily would command much attention, might be sidetracked.

The boys of the diamond, nevertheless, have an appeal that holds good throughout the year and there are hundreds of fans in every city and town who persist in baseball discussions whether there be frost or sunshine on the ground.

BRAVES-CUBS IN SPOTLIGHT

The Braves and Cubs are in the spotlight now owing to the uncertain status of Manager Rogers Hornsby of the Tribe. The skids seem all greased to get the hard-hitting Texan out of Boston, while out in Chicago the fans and Cub directors are weaving a huge "welcome bat" for the kingpin batter.

The readers have already been told that the Boston club lost a fortune this year and that Hornsby is drawing down something like $40,000 per season. Add to this condition the Boston fans' displeasure over the treatment accorded Jack Slattery, whom Hornsby succeeded, and you have the reasons for the desire of the Boston directors to swap the Rajah.

Owner Wrigley, of the Cubs, has a couple of reasons for reaching for the de luxe hitter. In the first place the Cubs are anxious to win a flag; secondly, they are one of the richest clubs in baseball and therefore will find no hardship in paying Hornsby his price. At the present time the Bears seem to be on the right trail of the man they want.

Doubleheader Grid Plan Failure

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—The Big Ten's experiment with football doubleheaders through the use of reserve or "B" teams so far has been discouraging, several athletic directors have reported.

Coaches and alumni, especially, have protested against the doubleheader plan, it is reported, and suggestions have been made that the former system of intercollege freshman gridiron competition be substituted.

PENN SURVIVES STATE GAME WITH FEW INJURIES

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Despite the fact Pennsylvania clashed with its toughest opponent so far this season Saturday, when it defeated Penn State, the team came out of the battle unbattered physically.

Carroll Rosenbloom, the fullback, received a bump on the knee; Ruen, a tackle, received a black eye, and Utz, a tackle, suffered a skinned nose. But that was the extent of the Pennsylvania injuries.

Pennsylvania scouts returned from the Navy-Duke game with the news that the Navy has a strong defensive team and shows promise of developing an offense.

DeMarco-Goldstein Clash Monday

A LOCAL rivalry match is on the tapis at Motor Square Garden next Monday night, when Phil Goldstein, pride of the Hill, and Cuddy DeMarco, of Charleroi, McKeesport and Pittsburgh, will clash for the lightweight championship of the Pittsburgh district.

Although Goldstein lost in his last local appearance against Johnny Mellow in the same ring last Monday night, he is one of the best drawing cards in the city and the only local club always is glad to use him. He drew one of the best gates of the early season with Mellow. The battle with DeMarco will bring him into action against a local rival for the first time since he boxed his memorable three battles with Tommy Crowley in the same arena last season.

Goldstein is the leading lightweight of the newer school around here, while DeMarco represents the old or veteran guard.

MELLOW VS. FITZGERALD

The Washington (Pa.) Club has matched Freddie Fitzgerald of Youngstown and Johnny Mellow of Detroit for its main event next Monday night.

Young Piazzi, veteran welterweight of Mt. Washington, is keen to box Dominick Profio, the new knockout ace. Piazzi now is under the management of Fred Bochert.

Mushy Callahan, junior welterweight champion, boxes Bobby Tracey of Buffalo at Chicago tonight. Haskon Hansen and Johnny Burns meet in Chicago Friday night.

Phil Goldstein boxes Ray Mitchell, the Philadelphia veteran, in a return bout at Passaic, N. J., tonight.

Dan Billick, former amateur of Duquesne, will appear in the semi-final. Billick also will box on the same card with Goldstein against DeMarco at Motor Square Garden next Monday night.

M'KEESPORT CARD COMPLETE

The card has been completed for the weekly show in the Palisades roller rink, McKeesport, Thursday night, with the signing of Jimmy Kane of McKeesport to meet Johnny Haggerty of Lawrenceville in the six-round opening bout. Johnny Ryan of Erie and Davey Adelman of Philadelphia, bantams, will box the main bout of 10 rounds and Dominick Profio and Jackie Murray are paired for a return bout in the semi-final, while the second battle will bring together Battling Gizzy of Donora and Frankie Moran of Homewood.

Dominick Profio meets Young Chapple, of Scranton (not the Philadelphia Young Chapple), in one of the bouts at Motor Square Garden, next Monday night. Nunci Villa and Johnny Haggerty will clash in a four-round battle.

Freddie Boylstein is requested to call Reed Brown at Lafayette 5820-R at 6 p. m., today.

Maxie Leiner, who defeated Harvey Kelly in a six-round bout in New York last night, is a cousin of Benny Leonard, the former lightweight champion, whose real name is Benjamin Leiner.

Frankie Wine, of Akron, has been matched to box Ike McCowler, Negro heavyweight of Johnstown, at Johnstown, November 5. The show will be held in the Auditorium. Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, is matched with Young Guido, of Sharon, for the semi-final.

KAYOED, TAKES TITLE

MONTREAL, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—George Sidders, of Montreal, won the welterweight championship of Canada from George Fifield, of Toronto, here last night, on a foul in the seventh round. Fifield knocked out Sidders, but was disqualified because he had used the illegal rabbit punch.

NAVY DROPS BOSTON

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Boston College, which this year defeated Navy, 6 to 0, at football, has been dropped from the Annapolis football schedule for 1929, according to advices received by Boston College athletic authorities from Annapolis yesterday.

INJURIES WRECK GRID HOPES

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Injuries, capable wreckers of championship football hopes, rose up to confront a number of Eastern college coaches yesterday.

His team more or less wrecked by Dartmouth, Charley Crowley, at Columbia, suffered a heavy blow when it was announced that Hank Kumpf had suffered a fracture of a small bone in his left leg in the fray at Hanover and would play no more football for his Alma Mater. Another backfield ace, Stanzyk, did an injured shoulder no good by playing against the Indians and will not be able to get into the game with undefeated Williams this Saturday.

West Virginia, just reaching top form, probably will battle Lafayette at Easton, Pa., without the services of the brilliant Sophomroe Halfback, Eddie Stumpp, who dislocated his knee in the Washington and Lee game.

Eight regulars are on Harvard's injured list, but all are expected to get into the game with Dartmouth. Arnold Horween will need to throw his full strength into that game or the Crimson will have another defeat on its record. Dartmouth was heartened by the return of Al Marsters to the backfield, but Ed Jeremiah, Marsters' substitute in the Columbia game, was so badly hurt he may be out of the game for the rest of the year.

Army and Yale, conquerors of Harvard and Brown respectively, came out of Saturday's battles in good shape. Mal Stevens devoted the Elis' practice period to developing an aerial attack while Army, with several regulars, including Capt. Mort Sprague, on the sidelines, because of injuries, had only a light drill. The Cadets and Bulldogs are undefeated and their battle at New Haven may settle the question of sectional supremacy.

Only light work was on the program for Cornell and Princeton who meet in Tigerland in one of the coming week-ends outstanding games.

Pitt and Carnegie Tech went through signal drills, but postponed heavy preparations for their city championship battle, until today.

Frankly fearing Colgate, Chick Meehan lectured his New York University squad for the mistakes it made against Rutgers and warned them a repetition will be fatal against a strong, alert eleven like Colgate.

With Washington and Jefferson next on the list, Fordham was given a well-earned rest after Saturday's grueling victory over Holy Cross.

JOE DUNDEE IS VICTOR

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Joe Dundee, of Baltimore, welterweight champion, won the decision over Walcott Langfoord, Chicago Negro, in a slashing 10-round bout at the Arena last night. Both fighters were overweight and Dundee's title was not at stake.

Dundee was credited with winning by a wide margin and frequently made a punching bag of his opponent. A boil on the champion's neck handicapped him somewhat, but he was always willing to either box or go in close with Langford.

Dundee sailed into his opponent at the outset and pummeled him savagely in every round. He was unable, however, to score a knockdown. Langford, although punished severely, apparently was fresh at the finish and looked as though he could have gone another 10 rounds.

This was to be Dundee's final bout before he defends his title in New York next month when he meets Young Jack Thompson, the Pacific Coast flash. Dundee weighed 149 pounds, Langford 156.

KISKI GOLF TEAM WINS

The Kiski golf team, led by the two brilliant Kiski youngsters, Denny St. Clair, and Billy Marks, made a clean sweep over the Shady Side golf team in a match on the course at Kiski, the score being 19-0 for Kiski.

St. Clair with a 79, and Marks with a 78, shot the best golf. The best score for Shady Side was made by Adenbrook, with an 82. The lineup follows:

SOUTH HILLS, PEABODY GIRL SWIMMERS WIN

South Hills defeated Fifth Avenue, 42 to 15, and Peabody conquered Westinghouse, 36 to 21, in a senior high school girls' swimming meets yesterday at Fifth and Peabody pools. The South Hills Junior girls defeated the Fifth Juniors, 26 to 21. The meets marked the close of the league season for the teams involved, and both the senior and junior teams of South Hills went through the season undefeated.

Wandering Grid Players Scored

By TOM BIRKS.

NOW that Sunday's outstanding independent football games have been played over and over by the fans, another matter is agitating the boys who pay the dough to make possible big pay days for some of the highly-touted stars. When are some of the leading players, or stars, as the gullible fans call them, going to stay put, and play with one club?

Last week two clubs in different parts of the city advertised that a certain player would appear in their lineup, and when Sunday's game rolled around the player in question strolled out in the makeup of an entirely different club. Not so many moons ago quite a number of managers locally were bothered by other managers continually waging a big roll around the club, and the consequence was that every one was dissatisfied, and no manager knew just when his players were available. With this condition confronting a certain club last September, the club announced it would be missing from the gridiron, and matters during the past few weeks imply the club in question used good judgment in its decision.

Some fans call it loading up, others call it padding, and another word is poor sportsmanship on both the managers' and players' part for their share of the bargain; that is, carrying the best material to the clubs who are fortunate enough to have the dough. How on earth any player can be of any use to a club when he does not know the signals is beyond the writer. The fans who pay the freight are kicking, and they have a right to be heard. Football players have the moral right to earn all they can, but for heaven's sake let them stay put.

And while they are endeavoring to play with one club, those eager managers with the big rolls could also help matters by keeping the greenbacks in their pockets and using the players who naturally have the right to wear the club's colors.

The first fatal injury of the local gridiron season happened at the Quarry grounds, East Pittsburgh, when John Rodockovick, playing with the Braddock Park Arrows against the Chalfont Tigers, received a fractured skull. He died yesterday afternoon at the Braddock General Hospital. Phillips, the little end playing with the Burns club, also received a cracked collar bone in the Glassport Odds game Sunday.

Quite a number of the best clubs in the district are looking for games this week. Irwin Scholastics want to go away. Call Schultles at Irwin 9999. Port Vue Quakers, one of the leading contenders, want to travel. Call Mike Rogan at McKeesport 25665. Pleasant Valley Smilers are open Sunday. Call John Dunsky at Lafayette 3997-W. Lou's A. A. of Clairton wants a game. Call Mike Lavonsky at Clairton 88-M. Eighth Ward Traders want to book Sunday. Call Ed Ritter at Schenley 1221.

Kennedy with his Big Red McChesneytown machine will be the attraction at Springdale on Sunday, opposing the Amicus. Max Rosskamp, manager of the Amicus, was on the sidelines watching the Burns Odds game, and left with the idea that this is one season that he has a better club than the Black and White. Maybe that was an off day, for Glassport did nothing worth while. The only outstanding feature was the punting duel between Foote and Stein. Burns sure could use Billy Doll.

At McKeesport Sunday two local derbies will be staged. At Rainbow Gardens the Olympics and Glassport Odds will have their annual tussle, and with Newlin and Goldberg on the injured list, Manager Fred Iverson is not tickled pink with Sunday's game looming. At Port Vue the Port Vue Odds will clash with McKeesport Crimsons, and this game will probably draw a large crowd. The football might not be of the best, but there will be plenty of fight.

AL ESPINOSA QUITS ILLINOIS GOLF CLUB

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Al Espinosa, runner-up in the recent National Professional Golfers' Association championships, has resigned as professional at the Illinois Golf Club of Chicago because of friction between himself and the club's management.

The former Californian, who holds numerous sectional titles and who ranks among the nation's best golfers, refused to discuss the break other than to say "we both agreed to disagree."

His plans for the future are indefinite, he said, although he has received offers from two New York clubs.

JACK RENAULT LOSES TO MALONEY IN SLOW GO

BOSTON, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Jim Maloney, Boston heavyweight, outpointed Jack Renault, of Canada, here last night in a slow 10-round bout. Neither was able to score many clean blows and both were fatigued before the bout was half over. Maloney weighed 196 pounds and Renault 199.

Maloney was aggressive during the first round, Renault failing to land one solid punch. During the remainder of the bout both men swung wildly and were often guilty of slapping. In the fourth Renault staggered Maloney with a hard right hook.

TOOLE LAUDS JACK

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—The death of Jack Dunn, president of the Baltimore Orioles, has cost baseball "one of its most practical and effective members," President John Conway Toole, president of the International League, said in a statement.

"My acquaintance with Dunn," he said, "extended back to the years before he attained his big position as a baseball manager. He was always a skillful and brainy player and concededly could get more out of a club than almost any other manager in the business.

"Mr. Dunn should be classed with the really great managers of the game. He had a marvelous memory for the plays that developed in the game and a quick and accurate judgment as to what should be done by his club on the offense and defense.

"The International League owes a deep debt to Dunn. He was for many years one of the strongest pillars of the organization. There was but one Jack Dunn. His successor will not be found. Baseball has lost one of its most practical and effective members. At this time we can only say that the league and baseball has sustained an irreparable loss in the passing of Jack Dunn."

Toole said the league would be represented at the funeral services and that suitable memorial resolutions would be adopted by the club owners.

LAFAYETTE WORKS HARD FOR MOUNTAINEER TILT

EASTON, Pa., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Despite Lafayette's bitter fight against Bucknell Saturday, there was no rest for the Maroon squad yesterday as preparations began for the encounter with West Virginia here Saturday. Perfection of a defense for plays which the Mountaineers have used to win four consecutive games constituted the afternoon's work.

The team came through the Bucknell engagement in good shape. Wilson and Chimenti, halfbacks, were not in uniform, but their ankle injuries are considered serious enough to keep them away from practice during the rest of the week. The entire Maroon line was in perfect condition.

BIG TEN DRILLS WASHED OUT

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Another downpour of rain which drove most squads inside for "skull" practice, gave Big Ten coaches ample opportunity yesterday to lecture their players on what they should and should not have done in Saturday's battles.

At Wisconsin Coach Gloomy Glen Thistlethwaite was even more gloomy and he warned his men he would make some changes in the lineup for the Michigan game. Thistlethwaite expressed great disappointment because his men were held to a 19-all tie by Purdue, but praised their fighting spirit in coming from behind after a disastrous start. The Badgers worked out in the stock pavilion. Gene Rose, halfback, who was injured in the Purdue games, was not out today, while Hal Smith, sophomore back, was in uniform but did not work out.

Prospects at Illinois became even brighter when Harry Richman, veteran center, hurdled his ineligibility trouble and reported for practice. Richman is rated as one of the best centers in the conference and is a tartar on defense especially. Chuck Hall, another fleet ball lugger who was injured in practice two weeks ago, also was out for his first stiff practice. Coach Bob Zuppke is stressing a defense against Northwestern's heralded aerial attack.

Coach Pat Page gave his men a workout in the rain at Indiana, pointing out mistakes in the Illinois game. The Hoosiers came out of the game in good physical shape and are confident of shoving Ohio State out of the championship running Saturday.

Michigan's regulars were given a day off, while those who did not get into the Ohio State game scrimmaged, hinting Coach Tad Wieman plans another drastic shake-up for the Winconsin invasion. Bovard, regular center, aggravated a knee injury in the Ohio State game and will be out of practice for a day or two.

Northwestern began building up a defense against Illinois' line attack, while Chicago's battered forces huddled under the stadium to avoid the rain and practice kicking and blocking and hear Coach Amos Stagg point out faults in the Minnesota game.

YOST, WIEMAN DENY RUMOR OF BREAK

ANN ARBOR, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Relations between Fielding H. Yost and E. E. Wieman, athletic director and football coach, respectively at the University of Michigan, have been too long and too intimate to be jeopardized by any "minor misunderstanding," the two men declared in a joint statement issued here last night.

Although the "minor misunderstanding" was not explained, the reference was generally interpreted as involving the matter of authority in handling the football team, and consequent responsibility for its poor showing this year.

Yost and Wieman have been associated since 1915 when Wieman came from California to Michigan as a student and began his football career under the veteran coach.

The joint statement follows:

"Published reports to the effect that there has been an estrangement between us are utterly without foundation. Our association in our common effort to advance the athletic interests of Michigan has been too long and too intimate to be jeopardized by any minor misunderstandings.

"For the handling of the football squad up to October 5, Mr. Yost assumed full responsibility. Since the above date, Mr. Wieman has been in charge as head coach.

"There is no disposition on the part of either one of us to dodge or shift responsibility. In spite of the reverses this year, the morale of the squad is splendid. We are entirely sure that there will not be a man representing Michigan who will not fight to his limit in each game.

"(Signed)
"FIELDING H. YOST,
"E. E. WIEMAN."

As soon as the statement had been prepared, Wieman and Yost took the field in the rain to watch the workout of all but the first string players of the varsity. The latter were given a rest following their hard game against Ohio Saturday.

TRADES

little trading. There are reports of negotiations toward a deal involving Glenn Wright and Travis Jackson, two of the best shortfielders in the game. McGraw, it is said, might be willing to dispose of his star if he could acquire the Missouri socker.

That Manager Bush is not entirely satisfied with the second-base situation is taken for granted in view of the changes made at that position during the race just closed.

Sparky Adams played fine ball for the Buccos for the most part, but he appeared to be more natural during his reign at the shortfield when Wright was injured. Adams' batting was not quite as good as he was expected to show on the offense, but you can go a long distance and do much worse.

With Earl Sheely now a member of the club, Firstbaseman George Grantham is the tough crossword puzzle on which the Pirate owners must work.

GRANTHAM OFF EDGE

Grantham didn't exactly satisfy on second and there was something missing in his play at first base. George certainly didn't stand out in the last few weeks of the race, his typical tendency to drag a bit taking the edge off an otherwise big season.

It may be that Boots will be transferred to the outfield, but if he were assigned to a pasture berth the flychasers would all be southpaw hitters—and such a front might not work out so well. However, if Grantham were placed on the trade mart, the Buccos would ask much in exchange for his services.

John McGraw, 'tis said, is anxious to land Pete Donohue, of the Reds, and he may be willing to part with Victor Aldridge. A deal between New York and Cincinnati would not be surprising.

CAREY SMART PLAYER

The most drastic change in the Dodgers may be in the appointment of Max Carey as manager, with Wilbert Robinson confining himself to presidential duties.

Carey has ever been a smart player and has many admirers who feel sure that he would make a capable leader.

The Phillies, augmented by Tommy Thevenow, already look better for next year, but Burt Shotton will have to develop a couple of good pitchers if he is to make any big gains.

The Reds need a couple of players with punch to make them resemble champions. Jack Hendricks probably is trying to acquire another hard-hitting infielder or two, but where will he get him.

The Cardinals have so many minor league teams they don't have to worry so much about incoming stars. The Redbirds were in such a pronounced slump in the big series they gave evidence of needing a lot of things. There is apt to be a change or two in the regular lineup for next year, and it is probable that the McKechnie-Rickey-Breadon combination will be willing to talk with other big leaguers concerning swaps.

It may be that the trade winds will blow up something big even before the annual December meetings of the baseball people.

FIGHT

outfought Harry Spencer, of Washington, Pa., in the second bout, but got only a draw when the judges split and Referee Grayber joined with Judge Simco in declaring it even. Judge Brown voted for Spencer, so that the rightful victor did not get a vote. Spencer, a great two-handed puncher for a beginner, rocked Louder badly in the opening round, which he won, and also flashed a strong finish in the last round, which he also carried, but Louder plugged along to win all of the others and showed some flashes of his fine boxing form of last season.

GIBBONS IS VICTIM

Ed Gibbons, of Duquesne, beat Ray Braunstein (formerly Ray Braun) in the four-round opener, but the judges agreed on Braunstein as the winner, thus nullifying the referee's vote for Gibbons. Braunstein's right eye went into mourning in the first round, reopened in the second and was closed tighter than a drum in the last two and he was bleeding badly from the nose and mouth, while Gibbons was scarcely marked. The referee would have been justified for stopping the bout for Braunstein's bad eye alone, yet the decision was fumbled into the beaten gladiator's lap.

The weights, aside from the main bout, were:

Rudy, 139, and Kusic, 135½; Buff and Carpentier, 125½ each; Louder, 153, and Spencer, 153½, and Braunstein, 138, and Gibbons, 135½.

The judges were Frank (Bull) Brown and Jock Simco. Al Grayber and Red Robinson worked as referees, with Robinson handling the main and third bouts and Grayber the others.

break. He was usually right. He had a sixth football sense that every coach prays for and seldom gets."

THE lost has been found. Herb Drury, for years a star on the Pittsburgh hockey team, who has been mysteriously missing for three months, blew into town yesterday and explained to his wondering friends that he had been on a long fishing trip to Midland, Canada, accompanied by his uncle and three members of the Pirate ice team.

Drury looks to be in fine condition. He says he is much lighter than he was at the start of the 1927-28 hockey season, and predicts that any of the new candidates for his place in the lineup for the approaching race will have a tough time taking his job away from him.

Frank Boucher

WHILE on the subject of hockey, news comes from New York that Frank Boucher, slippery little pivot man of the Rangers, still is a holdout. He arrived in Gotham from Ottawa Saturday all set to sign a contract, but when he met Col. John S. Hammond he had several stipulations to make that had not been discussed by letter. After several conferences stretching over a period of hours they were still at odds, so Bouchner agreed to report to the training camp at Springfield without a contract, with the understanding that there will be a showdown this week.

It will be known as the Joe Bumbera Memorial Trophy, in honor of the late brother of the donor, a California business man. Joe was a Pitt alumnus and an ardent football fan, and the trophy, which must be won three times to pass into permenent possession of one of the teams, will perpetuate his memory. Neither California nor Charleroi has been defeated so far this season.

Fullback Is Notre Dame's Need, Rockne Says

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 23—(AP.)—"Wanted, a fullback—Knute Rockne."

Blaming Notre Dame's defeats by Wisconsin and Georgia Tech on the absence of a crashing fullback who can gain two or three yards when a touchdown is in the offing, Coach Rockne has started anew his quest for someone to serve that purpose.

In yesterday's practice, he tried no less than 15 men, but was not satisfied.

WEST VIRGINIA

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 23.—With the definite announcement that Eddie Stumpp, sensational West Virginia University football field general, would be out of the lineup until the Fordham game at New York on election day, Head Coach L. E. Rodgers started on a quest yesterday afternoon for a signal barker and triple threat man to replace the flashy sophomore ball toter. Cassie Ryan, veteran halfback, was used in a signal drill and he in turn gave way to Albert Big Sleepy Glenn, who has been a regular since his freshman year until Sophomores Stumpp and Bartrug crowded him out of the backfield this season. Bus Larue, who called signals during the greater part of last year, also was given a chance to display his wares. The biggest problem in getting ready for the Lafayette game Saturday at Easton, is that of replacing Stumpp.

Woozie Lewis, veteran tackle, who started his first game this year last Saturday, was at left tackle, where Julian Scott was playing regularly until he was injured in the Pitt battle. Otherwise the Mountaineer lineup remained intact.

IN 1920 the number of American families owning more than one car was about 300,000.

Today the families owning a second or third car are estimated at 3,000,000.

While the number of cars in use has doubled since 1920, the increase in "two-car" ownership has been tenfold!

This is a sound economic development. Two-car ownership provides the transportation needed by the man in business and gives to his family larger companionship and widespread opportunities. No other possession costs so little in proportion to the benefits conferred.

A thrifty way to enjoy two-car ownership is to buy a used car for your second car.

The used cars offered by General Motors dealers vary in name, body style and price. But each has a value to some family—and particularly to a family needing a second or third car to meet the requirements of all its members.

Examine the stocks of used cars in the hands of General Motors dealers and, when you find the car you want, buy it on the convenient GMAC Payment Plan.

Midwest Leaders Voice Optimism.

By B. C. FORBES

IN THE MIDDLEWEST, Oct. 23.

AN excellent picture of conditions in the Middlewest and Northwest is given by the very prominent authorities here quoted. The picture as you will see is reasonably, encouragingly bright.

John S. Pillsbury, of the famous Pillsbury Flour Mills of Minneapolis, told me:

"Business conditions in the agricultural Northwest are, I think, brighter than they have been in years. The last two crops have been ample and while prices have not been as satisfactory as the farmers could wish, they are now able to plant and harvest their crops at a great deal lower cost than previously by using new farm machinery, including the combine harvester and the new windrow harvester. Another very large factor has been the willingness of farmers and their families to work more.

"Diversification in states like Minnesota and North and South Dakota, particularly, has also greatly helped the farmer. There has been a big increase in dairying and in the raising of stock, and this has been very profitable, and the former giving the farmer a monthly cash income.

"Land values have gone down to somewhere nearly normal, there has been a big reduction in frozen credits and a large amount of past-due taxes and mortgage interest payments have been cleaned up.

"This has resulted in a very much better demand for goods, and consequently, the retail business in the Northwest and most lines of wholesale business are having satisfactory trade. It has also given a feeling of optimism in the larger cities. More new business building is going on in Minneapolis than in many years; there is also every evidence of a very healthy increase in population.

"When our farmers finally conclude that they must cease to look for good interest rates on values of their land, and must depend upon a reward for their physical labor, I believe that the farm problem will come much nearer being solved."

R. A. LONG, veteran head of the gigantic Long-Bell Lumber Company, which is doing such big things at Longview, Ore., and active elsewhere, says:

"There has been a gradual improvement in the lumber industry, and this improvement should continue due to better business conditions in general and to a concerted effort by the entire industry to better acquaint the public with lumber and lumber products.

"Lumber is a necessity. Approximately three-fourths of all homes in America are built either entirely or principally of wood. At least 95 per cent of all farm buildings are of wood construction. Home ownership has not kept pace with our ever increasing population and the average farm is lacking in needed buildings. Furthermore, there are thousands and thousands of old homes in need of modernization.

"The financial condition of our country is unusually good. Wages, employment, bank deposits, reduction of farmers' indebtedness all point to continued prosperity.

"That the lumber industry is on an upward trend is evidenced not only by an increase in sales and better prices, but also by a statement made by the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics based on returns from 30 cities of 100,000 population or over, which indicates that for the first time since 1925 expenditures for new buildings for which permits were issued showed an increase in the first six months of one per cent over 1927. The amount spent for residential buildings increased 6.5 per cent.

"I believe there will be a continuance of the present normal trend towards betterment in business and especially towards a marked improvement in the lumber industry."

C. R. MESSINGER, president of Chain Belt Company, Milwaukee, makes these interesting observations:

"Business conditions in this section have been better than anticipated, and the important metal industries of Milwaukee have enjoyed a very active year. The unusual activity of the automotive and construction industries and the exceptional business done by agricultural implement manufacturers, have been noticeably reflected in the general prosperity of this section.

"Competition has been extremely keen and many plants have found it necessary to rebuild and rearrange their facilities, and this in itself has created business. Our manufacturers are in better shape than ever to produce and this, with good labor and credit conditions, has brought a lot of business into this territory. The average manufacturer has had a good year and business has been better this fall than even the most optimistic anticipated.

"Most manufacturers are looking forward to good winter months and a promising start for 1929."

STOCK TRADING MIXED WITH TREND UP

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—(A.P.)—Mixed price movements in today's stock market reflected the play of opposing speculative forces, but major activity was again on the upside with the copper, steel and motor issues in the forefront of the advance. Repeated commission house warnings against an over-bought position brought heavy selling into a few of the recent speculative favorites, which dropped 5 to 10 points, but these were offset by gains of 5 to 17 points in a fairly large assortment of specialties.

Renewal of call loans at 6 per cent the lowest opening rate since September 28, had a bullish effect on speculative sentiment. Further gold imports from the Argentine, coupled with predictions of additional shipments from Great Britain in the near future, also tended to allay uneasiness over the credit outlook.

Heavy buying of U. S. Steel common, which advanced 3 points, stimulated the afternoon recovery. Other steel shares followed in its wake. Vanadium rising 3½ points, on expectations of unusually favorable fourth quarter earnings. The recent decline in building activity was widely regarded as temporary, and likely to improve with the further lowering of money rates, recent stiffness of which has held up a number of large projects.

Copper shares responded to the favorable price situation in the industry, Kennecott and Granby leading the advance with early gains of 3 points each. Seneca again changed hands in large volume, crossing 7 to a new high. Dupont soared 8 points on reports that merger negotiations with Grasselli Chemical only await the approval of the Department of Justice. Concurrent strength and activity of Radio and Western Union, each of which advanced 4 points, was based on the belief that legislation favorable to a merger or closer working arrangement between those two companies was likely in the next Congress.

Motor Products, which was weak yesterday, soared 17 points. International Harvester, Commercial Solvents, Dunhill International, Spang Chalfant, Mackay Companies, Eastman Kodak, Union Carbide, R. H. Macy, Century Ribbon, Chrysler, Allied Chemical, Goodyear, Fidelity Phenix Insurance and United Biscuit all sold 3 to 8 points higher, several of them touching record high prices.

A. M. Byers broke 10 points, but quickly recovered half its loss. Adams Express dropped 7 points, Montgomery Ward 5, Industrial Rayon 4 and Marlin Rockwell and General Railway Signal each fell back about 3 points.

Trading was again heavy, but the ticker kept fairly well abreast of the market.

PGH. STEEL CO. EARNINGS GROW

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE Pittsburgh Steel Company showed a pronounced improvement in earnings in the quarter ended September 30. More active demand for pipe in the oil fields, a high rate of building activity and firmer prices were responsible.

Production is close to capacity. The present quarter may be expected to produce earnings at a continued high rate. If the current rate of activity in sales continues the fiscal year ending June 30, 1929, will be the best for several years.

Net profit for the quarter after all charges, including depreciation and Federal taxes, was $905,822. After deducting dividends on the 105,000 shares of 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock for the period this was equivalent to $2.85 a share earned on the 253,500 shares of common stock. Dividend requirements on the preferred stock for an entire year amounting to $735,000 were earned in the three months.

PITTSBURGH STEEL has just passed through a lean period. Dullness in buying of pipe and wire, the company's principal products, caused net income to slump to $1,342,141, or $2.40 a share in the year ended June 30, 1928. This compared with $1,951,957, or $4.80 a share in the preceding year, and with $2,533,577, or $7.10 a share in the year ended June 30, 1926.

Although the company has never failed to show some earnings applicable to the common stock during this depressed period, directors passed the quarterly common dividend of $1 a share on March 28, 1927. Heavy sinking fund charges and the necessity for making large expenditures to balance finishing mill capacity with steel output made the continuance of common dividends inadvisable.

The recent sale of $11,000,000 of 6 per cent 20-year debentures financed the necessary expansion work and established a more satisfactory funded debt structure.

B. R. & P. TO BUY CARS

ONE of the largest orders for railroad rolling stock to come on the market lately will be placed soon by the Buffalo, Rocsester and Pittsburgh Railway. William T. Noonan, president of the road, has confirmed reports that his company will be in the market for 1,000 box cars and 25 locomotives. If coal business continues at the same satisfactory rate of increase as at present the road probably will order 2,000 coal cars of heavy carrying capacity.

The company is in excellent shape for funds, having practically $4,000,000 in cash at the present time and no maturing obligations until 1937, which maturity has already been provided for through the terms of the consolidated mortgage. Control of the B. R. & P. was purchased recently by the Van Sweringen interests of Cleveland.

SPLIT BLAW-KNOX 3 FOR 1

THE split-up of the stock of the Blaw-Knox Company on a three shares for one basis announced yesterday will not place all of the newly-authorized no-par stock in public hands. At present about 276,325 shares of old stocks are outstanding. This indicates that about 828,975 shares of new stock will be issued out of a total authorization of 1,500,000 shares.

This surplus of unissued stock will be available for stock dividend or other forms of future distributions which directors may find advisable. The company has been liberal in this respect in the past. Stock dividends have been declared of 10 per cent in January of this year, 60 per cent in 1924, 20 per cent in 1920 and 50 per cent in 1912.

The dividend rate on the new stock will not be announced until the latter part of November. The old stock has been on a $3 annual basis. Earnings in 1927 were equivalent to $5.20 a share and in the first six months of this year they were $2.50 a share. Current business is active so that a dividend rate of more than $1 a share on the new stock is quite probable.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—The raw sugar market was unchanged early today at 3.53c for spots, duty paid, with no sales reported. There was little activity in the raw sugar futures market. The market opened 1 point higher to 1 point lower with some covering and commission house buying on the call, but European hedge selling again was in evidence. Prices sagged and at midday were net unchanged to 2 points lower.

The refined market was unchanged at 5.25@5.30c for fine granulated. Withdrawals on old contracts continued of fair volume, but new buying was light and for prompt shipment only.

$25,000 LOOT FOUND; ARREST HOUSEBREAKER

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Walter Luth, alleged by the police to have taken part in scores of robberies in many parts of the country, was arrested here today and held for a hearing tomorrow.

He was taken into custody, the authorities said, while trying to break into the home of a prominent Philadelphian.

Jewelry valued at more than $25,000 was found in Luth's apartment, including a watch, police said, indicated that the prisoner had taken part in a robbery in New York City a month ago.

Additional Stage and Screen

MISS HAVER IS SIREN IN PENN

D. W. Griffith has taken an old theme for his picture, "The Battle of the Sexes," current photoplay in the Penn, and thus we see Phyllis Haver as a blond siren set to vamp a successful business man, devoted to his family, in order that her man may sell him worthless bonds. The "battle" comes when the business man's daughter sets out to save her father. Interesting, but unworthy of Griffith. Characterization is well taken care of, however, and this factor and a few dramatic scenes save as much film from being a total loss as possible. Miss Haver, as the vamp lady, is seductively fascinating. Jean Hersholt is a likeable family and convincingly sappy as her victim. Belle Bennett, as his wife, Sally O'Neill, as his daughter, and Don Alvarado, as the sleek and slick bond salesman, all do their work well. On the stage Dave Appollon, Russian dancer, musician and comedian, acts as master of ceremonies, vice Teddy Joyce, on vacation, and adds pep as well as versatile talent to several good specialties. These include Dayzi, a female Jack Donahue, in clever eccentric dancing, a string orchestra and steps by the Felicia Sorrel girls. Audible news, Dick Leibert's organ novelty and an overture by the orchestra complete the bill.

NOVEL BITS ON DAVIS MENU

Vadeville is often afflicted with sameness, but the bill in the Davis this week breaks out into novelty. There is the one-legged dancer, Ed Ernie, who could show a thing or two to many a two-legged hoofer, as he whirls his partner May Ernie about. And there is an acrobatic act, called "Golden Dream," that well deserves its title—being not only acrobatic, but also artistic. Several comedy skits are exceptionally bright—the debate between Bill Talent and Flo Mermit about "Man and Woman" is full of amusing sallies, while "Cuckoo Charley," the blackface comedy, dancing and burlesque of Curley Burns and Company, has many moments of high fun. Lew Reed and Paul LeVere are as entertaining as ever in their musical boob diversion, and Pat Rooney's Rodeo Boys can extract music from bottles, spoons and toy balloons. It is a splendid and varied bill of vaudeville, followed by a feature picture in which Johnny Hines plays the inventor of a blotterless and luminous ink in a scenario that overflows with humorous inventions, especially the dog that puts on an octopus disguise.

"High Flyers" Academy Bill

"High Flyers," is this week's burlesque at the Academy. Mike Sacks appears as the chief comedian and in a serious sketch, "Molly." Sacks, John Fagan and Sidney Leonard appear in the sketches "Douglass Fairbanks," and "Izzy at the Front." Francis Farr sings and dances. Thelma Benton and Evelyn Forrest present specialties. Oriental specialties by Carmen complete the bill.

Two Features In Olympic

Two features are on the bill in the Olympic, one "The Raider Emden," being devoted to the exploits of that German vessel in the World War, some of the scenes being actual official photographs. Another is "Fleetwing," a story of love in the desert, with a cast including Barry Norton, Ben Bard and Dorothy Janis, whose face is new to the screen.

Grand Retains Jólson's Film

"The Singing Fool," the widely acclaimed Al Jolson song picture, is being seen for a second week in the Grand. Jolson sings about nine numbers during the course of the drama. It is not a comedy.

Worthy Citizen Passes In Death of Leon Falk

The death of Leon Falk deprives Pittsburgh of one of its most worthy citizens. He was one of our sturdy natives who allied himself with the steel industry and reaped a fortune therefrom. This he shared with the less fortunate and with the city of his birth.

Perhaps the most notable of his activities in behalf of charity was his gift of $750,000 to the University of Pittsburgh to establish a charitable medical clinic. He also contributed 10 per cent of the quota assigned to Western Pennsylvania in the fund raised for the relief of Jews in Europe after the World War.

Successful in business, Mr. Falk did not close his ears to the appeal of humanity and he leaves behind a record that attests his love of his fellowmen. Pittsburgh can ill afford to lose such men.

Much Power in Simplicity

Wealth Corrupts Simplicity.

M. I. KALININ, PRESIDENT OF THE RUSSIAN SOVIET REPUBLIC, WITH HIS SON AND HIS MOTHER ON VACATION.

This picture interests us all, showing, in this stage of human life, a picture of power as it existed long ago.

Here you have the President of the Russian Soviet taking his vacation, dressed like a simple Russian peasant. With him you see his son and his mother in her every day and every evening costume, that of a peasant woman, a shawl on her head, a long calico dress below the shawl.

No pink silk stockings or short skirts, or rubber bands to reduce the hips.

Simple, earnest, rugged peasants' faces are these—mother, son and grandson.

Kalinin, head of a nation bigger in size and in population by far than the United States, a nation powerful in its revolutionary enthusiasm, able easily to beat off attacks of the united allied nations, HELPED BY THIS NATION.

Kalinin lives only for his work, believes intensely in theories of equality and communism. We think we know that he is wrong.

But that makes him not less powerful, not less dangerous to those of a different belief.

It is well to remember the saying of a great man concerning another, "That man is dangerous. HE BELIEVES EVERY WORD HE SAYS."

After all, this old woman, in her shawl and plain dress, and her rugged, powerful son, who with others threw out the rotten race of Czars and their corrupt and drunken gang of grand dukes, have about all that you can have in life.

They have all they need to eat, a good bed to sleep on, a roof to keep out the rain.

What real GOOD would silk stockings do this woman? What good would the preposterous uniform of a king or general, the sort worn in western Europe, do to this head of giant Russia?

He takes a vacation, not on a yacht with cannon booming, not in a resort equipped with gambling houses and disreputable women, but in the village in which he was born, and there he helps the peasants get in the crops. Dull, you say? Not for a real man. He'd find Deauville's gambling dull.

Such men ARE dangerous, at least to those that object to simplicity, to the idea that the people shall rule themselves, and divide among themselves the wealth of the nation.

BUT with hard work and simple living comes wealth, and with wealth comes corruption, in politics.

Make the Russian leaders rich, let their sons and grandsons taste luxury in its various forms, fine wines, imaginary personal refinement, and gradually the rugged Communist or republican becomes a would-be aristocrat.

No truer words were ever written than those of the Frenchman Prudhomme, Les monarchies perissent par la pourrete, les republiques par la richesse. "Monarchies are destroyed by poverty, republics by wealth."

2. Proportional representation in the United States Senate, no state to have less than two Senators. Legislation to enforce prompt constitutional reapportionment in the House of Representatives.
3. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defense.
4. Federal action to the limit of Federal powers to abolish illiteracy in the United States under a Secretary of Education.

Temptation of Jesus

(Luke 4: 1-13)

AND Jesus being full of the Holy Ghost returned from Jordan, and was led by the Spirit into the wilderness,

Being forty days tempted of the devil. And in those days he did eat nothing: and when they were ended, he afterward hungered.

And the devil said unto him, If thou be the Son of God, command this stone that it be made bread.

And Jesus answered him, saying, It is written, That man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word of God.

And the devil, taking him up into an high mountain, shewed unto him all the kingdoms of the world in a moment of time.

And the devil said unto him, All this power will I give thee, and the glory of them: for that is delivered unto me; and to whomsoever I will I give it.

If thou therefore wilt worship me, all shall be thine.

And Jesus answered and said unto him, Get thee behind me, Satan: for it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve.

And he brought him to Jerusalem, and set him on a pinnacle of the temple, and said unto him, If thou be the Son of God, cast thyself down from hence:

For it is written, He shall give his angles charge over thee, to keep thee:

And in their hands they shall bear thee up, lest at any time thou dash thy foot against a stone.

And Jesus answering said unto him, It is said, Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God.

And when the devil had ended all the temptation, he departed from him for a season.

Dead, Thank Heaven!

THE old bugaboo of "bad business in a presidential year" is dead at last.

Men and women do not stop wearing clothes, eating food, driving automobiles, riding in railroads and building houses once every four years.

Another evidence that we are in a period of continuous progress and prosperity thoroughly controlled.

Isn't It So?

Age broadens some people; others merely grow fat.

Display Your Wares

SOMETIMES you think that all you need to make you a leader is money.

You feel that the lack of it and a comparatively humble position bar you from the position you would like to hold.

You have brooded along this line so long that you do not make any effort to boost yourself into the place you would like.

You have talents, but you have failed to exhibit them, for you have carried the opinion that without money to back them you can't go far.

Naturally, with this attitude, your ability will never have a chance to display itself.

If you feel that you can do something better than the majority, make an effort to demonstrate the fact.

Because you have no money, there is no reason why you should be a failure.

There was never a time when greater recognition was given to those who stand above the ordinary in ability in any line.

Unusual ability and talent are energetically sought and well paid for.

Get out your wares and display them.

That is the only way you can sell them.

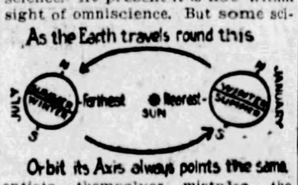
SUN AND SEASONS

By Garrett P. Serviss

"I am told that the earth is nearer the sun in winter than in summer; if so please explain why. —William Martin, Astoria, L. I."

WHEN science is able to tell the "why" as well as the "how" of things it will have attained omniscience. At present it is not within sight of omniscience. But some scientists themselves mistake the "how" for the "why."



I can only tell you, then, how it happens that winter corresponds with the time when the earth is nearest the sun. If the orbit of the earth were a perfect circle its distance from the sun would always remain the same, and if the axis of the earth were perpendicular to the plane of its orbit there would be no change of seasons.

But in fact the earth's orbit is an ellipse, with the sun about 3,000,000 miles nearer one end of the ellipse than the other. And the axis of the earth, instead of being upright, leans about 23½ degrees out of a perpendicular to its orbit. It also happens that at present, the North Pole is inclined sunwards at the very time when the earth is in that part of its orbit which lies farthest from the sun; while, on the other hand, the North Pole is inclined away from the sun when the earth is in that part of its orbit which lies nearest the sun. But the difference between winter and summer depends principally not on this difference of distance but on the steepness of the angle at which the sun's rays strike the earth. That angle is high in summer and low in winter.

Just take a glance at the little diagram herewith presented, and you will see how it is.

The earth is nearest the sun at the first of the year, which is sun's rays descent at their lowest angle on the northern hemisphere. (Mark well that the times of these things are exactly reversed in the southern hemisphere.

Thus you have the "how" answer to your question.

But now comes another, and a remarkable story. I have said that the situation above described represents the facts as they are at present. But time brings its revenges. In about ten thousand years from now the situation will be reversed, and then winter in our hemisphere will come when the sun is farthest from the earth, and summer when it is nearest. This results principally from the precession of the equinoxes, produced by a gyroscopic motion of the earth which causes its axis to swing slowly around like the peg of a sloping top, so that the fixity of direction that we have spoken of in explaining how it happens that the North Pole inclines sunward at the time the earth is farthest from the sun, is only apparent, and can not be counted upon except for a comparatively short period of time. There will be no notable change within our time or within the time of our great-grandchildren, but eventually the change will be felt and in about a hundred centuries the reversal will have been completed, to be accompanied, some have surmised, by a renewal of some of the phenomena of the glacial period.

Tales That Are Told

Her Last Chance

DOROTHY had been warned by her mother not to play in the road, which was very muddy. Several times Dorothy disobeyed and had to be brought in and cleaned up.

At last, exasperated, her mother exclaimed: "Dorothy, I'll give you one more chance. If you play in the road again I shall have to put you to bed."

The child went out again, but in a short time appeared at the door, wet and bedraggled.

"Well, mother," she remarked, in a tone of cheerful resignation, "I've used up my last chance!"

Not Easily Caught

THE dowager's daughters were not famed for their beauty, and their matrimonial prospects seemed remote. Still, there was one young man who it was considered might be brought to the scratch.

The dowager asked him sweetly one afternoon: "And now, Charlie, I must really ask you about your intentions."

Charlie rose from his seat, bowed to his hostess, and made for the door.

"Madam," he paused to reply, "I make it a rule never to have an affair with a married woman."—London Tit-Bits.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

SOME guys are able to say things about their wives and get away with it, even in company, while other's can't speak up even when there ain't any visitors.

This Johnson fellow was invited out to dinner at a neighbor's house, because they knew his wife had gone away.

"So you sent your wife to the country?" says the hostess, kinda opening the conversation. "Was her health bad?"

"No. Oh no! Nothing wrong with her. Just sent her up there. Well, for a rest, you know, and quiet."

"Oh yes! Well, now, that's awful nice of you, Mr. Johnson."

"Nice? Why, not at all. I'd just got all worn out, you know, and the doc said I had to have rest and quiet."

The Rhyming Optimist

Her Dreams

WHEN she was just a little maid
She had such lofty dreams,
A princess might have been afraid
Of their resplendent gleams.

Her hero was the perfect knight
Of tales of old romance,
Her dream-path shimmering, alight
With music, mirth and dance.

Today she's happy as can be,
Though false her dreams all prove;
She thinks they all came true, you see,
She's fathoms deep in love!

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Few sections of a rapidly changing city have undergone such surprising changes in the past few years as Greenwich Village. Those who have not seen it for five years would not recognize the old place, and yet it retains much of its ancient charm and has become about the pleasantest residential section in town.

The professional villagers—long-haired artists, smocked ladies and such—have almost abandoned the quarter. Only a few are left. Hundreds of roomy old houses have been provided with just enough modernism. The charm of their antiquity has not been spoiled.

Windows still bloom with flowers. Old-fashioned foot-scrapers and brass door-knockers have not been abandoned, and the quaint village atmosphere nestling close to the pulse of the city is retained. There is also an aura of wealth without ostentation.

Artists who have drifted there in the past few years are the serious minded, in contrast to the ash-tray painters of other days, who wore flowing robes, sat in the sputtering candle light and babbled of neo this and that. And guzzled gin.

The Village had become a place of 18-karat shams, filled with hokum for visiting tourists, while the rest of the town gave it a deserved chuckle. But much of this atmospheric blah has vanished. In its new dress, the Village has attained a little dignity.

Sedate and well-ordered restaurants such as may be found hidden away on the left bank of the Seine are crowding out the coffee shops and waffle parlors where hangers-on waited for tourists, from whom to cadge a few drinks and discuss defeated hopes. Grace Godwin's garret and other soulful shacks are torn down.

Tony specialty shops have opened to brisk trade. Rents have gone up and thus confounded those who wished to pose as living in a garret on a crust. Those responsible for the renaissance of the Village have created a strong impression it is no longer the haven for loafers. And that's a fine idea.

BUSINESS OF WRITING

By Dr. Frank Crane

Success in any business may be difficult, and often it seems that luck rather than merit and hard work, prevails.

It is very common to hear a father warning his son against following him in his profession. A doctor doesn't want his son to be a doctor, a minister warns his child against the hardships of the clerical calling, and grocers hope none of their children will grow up in the precarious and confined life of a grocer.

As a matter of fact it takes pluck and endurance and alertness to seize opportunity usually to get on in any calling.

Life is generally a struggle and the only people who succeed in it are those whom the California professor described as having "intestinal stamina."

But I sometimes think that about the most dangerous business in the world is that of writing. Even if you write a good book nine-tenths of its fame depends upon how the publisher jockeys it.

Writing is a curious thing. Everybody thinks he can write. If he could set down his grand and glorious ideas as they come to him people would read them greedily.

Every successful author has been deceived by multitudes asking for guidance, help and criticism about their work.

One thing the would-be writer should lay to heart is that what is called "influence" is of no value. When one sends a manuscript to a publisher it doesn't do any good to say that General Pershing and Calvin Coolidge have looked over the manuscript and liked it. The publishing house has one or more readers of its own and the manuscript must be judged by them, and with them no influence goes.

If there is any other way to get matter published than to peddle it around until you can get some publisher to fall for it, I don't know what it is.

A young girl, who thought she felt the divine afflatus, called the other day upon an author of some fame and asked him kindly to criticize her work. He did, and said it was no good.

He should have side-stepped. It does no good to give a budding author your honest opinion. If it's unfavorable he doesn't believe you. And if it's favorable it doesn't help particularly. The best way is to tell him you're sick, or too busy, or incompetent to judge, or dead.

The young girl in question after being unfavorably criticized by the author went out and committed suicide.

If you are very sensitive and suicidally inclined, better not attempt writing. But if you are a good loser and have plenty of the aforementioned "intestinal stamina" you might try it.

OH, THESE WOMEN

By Leola Allard

"JUST think," says a telephone operator, in a newspaper story, "there are only 23 wrong numbers out of every 1,000, and many of those are the customers' fault."

But if you are always one of the 23, day after day, and week after week, and month after month, how can you take great joy in knowing that the other 977 are getting right numbers? Just think, it would cost, at 6 cents per call, $60 to prove the girl is right, and even then you could still be one of the 23 when the arrangement came to an end.

Three women have started across the country in a car to find husbands. The only way they differ from other women is that they advertise that they are hunting husbands. The element of surprise is entirely eliminated.

They are trying to catch them with this bait:

"We want men of 45 who do not smoke or drink except semi-occasionally.

"We want men with $10,000, and $5,000 of that must be in cash. Not for us, but to educate a little brother.

"We want good-natured, honorable men.

"They must not be subject to fits of philandering.

"They must be absolutely truthful."

Men who want to be rigidly disciplined, who want to have all the joys of life extracted, and to pay well for the privilege of such a life, and who would get a great kick out of educating a strange woman's little brother, step right up. Here is a swell chance.

Fourteen women were arrested in Salt Lake City for gambling in a tearoom. A horse racing pool was the attraction. The women were from 25 to 40 years old.

Next they will be arresting them in the alleys, shooting dice.

A slim, white haired lady on a Fifth avenue bus in New York. Elegant, she was, and jovial, and quite pretty. She unfolded a thin lavender wool sweater and leaned over to remark: "I was too warm with this on, but riding is a bit cold. I think I'll drape it over my shoulders, outside my coat. It don't matter what you do these days anyway," and the dear thing giggled. "All the women wear things hanging down on one side or the other."

"I'm 85," she said proudly. "I've been at Atlantic City for the past year, and the things I saw there! It was such fun."

And she didn't say, "My, my it was awful." She just laughed merrily as if she loved life and everything in it. As if she understood how manners and customs change, and how she thought it was bully that they did. It will be a shame when she can no longer be here to watch the procession.

Everybody on the bus was interested in her.

If only women would grow old gracefully, cheerfully, intelligently as she did, instead of trying to fool themselves with a bottle of hair dye and a flaming red dress!

The Leviathan

A GOVERNMENT publication points out that in the slightly more than five years since the reconditioned Leviathan, flagship of the United States Lines, was placed in trans-Atlantic passenger service she has ferried more than 166,000 persons speedily, comfortably and safely.

Instead of putting two other swift ships into this service, so as to insure weekly sailings, the present program of the Shipping Board is to sell the Leviathan.

Nothing would be more acceptable to our foreign rivals. But how will such a policy promote an American merchant marine?
